Farewell, old bean

Coffee boycott brews up a storm

By D.G. FASSETT

Has America's addiction to coffee come to an end? Have the coffee growers and processors gone to the well one time to many? Yes, answer the residents of this area.

In a survey conducted last week by Associated Newspapers at local grocery stores, the resounding answer was yes.

'I will not pay the ridiculous price they are asking for coffee.' 'This is another put-up job to gouge Americans.' 'I don't care how long it takes to get those prices reduced, I won't drink coffee again until the price is down to at least one dollar a pound.'

These are some of the comments your friends and neighbors have made, when asked 'What are you going to do about the price of coffee?'

Armed with pen, paper, camera and thermal underwear, D.G. Fasset and Lothar Konietzko headed to local shopping centers to find out just how serious people were about this coffee boycott, and if they really had thought about available coffee alternatives. If you don't drink coffee, what in the world can you substitute for it?

Starting in VanBuren Twp. at the Lakewood shopping center, we positioned ourselves outside the Chatham store. Foodville in downtown Belleville was our next stop, followed by Bilmar's Super Market in Romulus. Meijer's in Canton Twp. was next, followed by a trip to Krogers at the Westland Shopping Center. One last stop for the frozen Associated duo was the A&P store at the Wayne Metro Place Mall.

In each location these questions were asked: Do you support the coffee boycott? Have you bought any coffee today, or are you going to be buying any? What will you use as a substitute for coffee? How long do you feel that this boycott will last? Do you think that the price increases of coffee are justified? Answers to those questions and comments by shoppers are presented on page A-12.

Below is a breakdown on the views of the 35 people that were interviewed.

Support boycott, will not drink coffee.....29

Support boycott, will try not to drink coffee.....4
Will not support boycott, who cares.....2
Total 35

In addition, the majority of those people who indicated they would not buy any more coffee, seemed to have given the question serious thought and were indeed convincing in their vocal support of the boycott.

It remains to be seen whether people will be able to resist that morning cup of coffee, and ultimately influence the price of coffee, but in the attempt to make that task easier we are providing a list of suggested alternatives.

First on the list of substitute brews is that concoction developed by coffee freaks during World War II. A combination of grains, fruits, and vegetables called "ersatz" coffee (Ersatz, is German for Fake), better known as Victory brew or Jeep, this brew is made from chicory root, roasted soybeans, whole grain rye, barley and chick peas, and according to the tastes memories we contacted, was to bad.

Other suggestions, not so exotic, included: Ovaltine, Postum, tea, cocoa, fruit juices, and pop.

For those of you who can't get along without that caffeine jolt in the morning, here are suggestions on how to cut down on your coffee consumption.

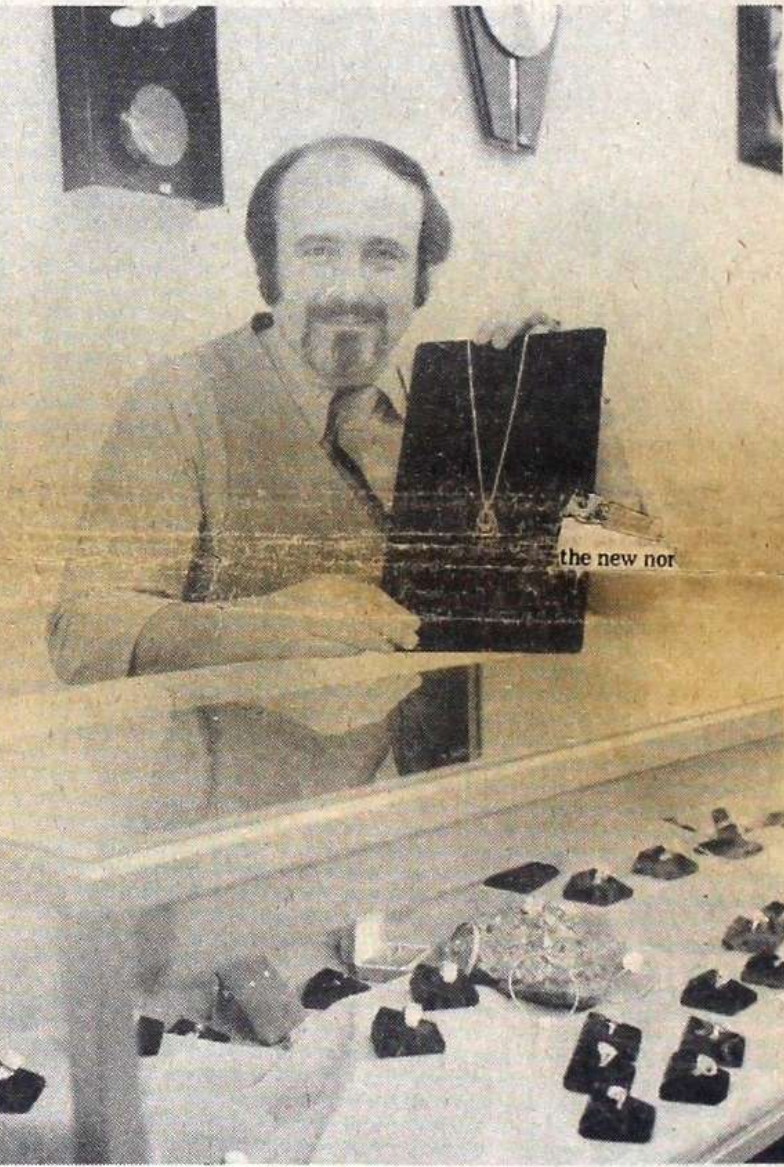

Since 50 cups, per pound of coffee, is the standard, any method getting you more than that is a cost reducer. Mrs. Charles Cook, of Belleville, suggested putting three scoops of coffee, instead of four, into the pot, and perk five minutes longer.

Another suggestion from Joe Tocco, owner of Farmington Fruit, "If you use a drip coffee filter through which you pour boiling water, leftover coffee can be reheated satisfactorily."

The cold water concentrate method is another way you might stretch your coffee dollar. With this method you steep a pound of coffee in eight cups of coffee for ten to twenty hours. After filtering you store the concentrate in the refrigerator. As coffee is needed you add one ounce of the concentrate to one cup of boiling water. With this technique you waste no coffee at all. For those of you who are now fed up with even talking about coffee, you might try the suggestion of Mrs.

Lucy Reynolds of Belleville. Since going out for a cup of coffee is now more expensive then staying home with a bottle of liquor, just forget about the coffee.

Gold Market v/s Coffee Market

Owner of the Gold Market Jewelry Store in the Lakewood shopping center, Joseph Fassal said, "The price of coffee is ridiculous. I support the boycott, and hope the American consumer won't let coffee producers and growers pull another 'Cartel rip-off' on them. Acting as a group, we can force prices back down to reasonable levels." —ANP photo.

A tea pot?

The old coffee pot, 'ain't what it use to be.' This may be a new adaptation for those old relics we use to call coffee pots. Other uses might include: bailing a leaking boat, planting flowers or a place for storing our mad money. — ANP photo by Lothar Konietzko.

Petition Drive may fall short

The petition drive to nullify Romulus' 39 per cent increase in water rates has come up 71 signatures short of the minimum number and today is the deadline for them to be turned in to City Clerk Leonard Folmar.

Ex-Mayor Terry Troutt was named chairman of the drive and turned in 848 total signatures. However, 104 of those have been ruled invalid, leaving the group with 744 valid signers.

The group petitioning was notified on Dec. 28 by Folmar that it lacked 71 signatures of having the required minimum of 815. Folmar issued a certification of insufficiency on that date, giving notice that the group had until Jan. 12 to come up with the required number of verifiable registered voters in the last mayoral election.

Clerk Folmar said he received a phone call from the group recently, but no one has brought in any additional signatures.

If the additional verifiable signatures are not brought in by today, the petition drive will fail and the 39 per cent water rate increase will stand as passed by city council.

However, if sufficient qualified signatures are handed to Folmar by today's deadline, one of two things must be done. Either City Council must rescind the rate increase or it will be suspended until the next general election in the fall.

In the latter case, Romulus voters will decide the outcome of the rate increase.

Foremen and city divided on issues

Three foremen employed by the Romulus Dept. of Public Works have joined a union to get what they feel is a justified raise in wages and other financial benefits.

Roscoe Smith, Alvin Britz and Sherman Youtsey joined the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) last spring.

They were on salary before joining AFSCME and their overtime hours were included in their increased salary at that time, according to Mayor James Stewart.

However, the three foremen felt they were working overtime for which their salary did not compensate them, and they went to City Council three or four times seeking overtime payment.

When council refused, Smith, Britz and Youtsey petitioned

AFSCME to become members on March 31, 1976 and it was approved by the State of Michigan Dept. of Labor Relations Commission.

Now the city and the foremen are negotiating for a DPW foremen contract and have settled on all but two issues.

The two parties have agreed on the length of their work week, overtime pay, standby pay, call-back pay and accumulated time.

Stalemateing the groups, however, are how much more the foremen will be paid than the highest hourly rate paid in the "Labor and Trades" classification, and retroactive pay. The foremen want their overtime pay retroactive to July 1, 1976.

According to Stewart, the foremen are presently being paid at the rate of $7.05 per hour and $282 per week.

The Red Apple opens

One of the newest restaurants in Belleville is The Red Apple which opened recently on Main Street, two blocks west of Five Points. Owned by Al DiMatteo, it has a spacious, neat chandeliered dining area and serves a wide assortment of tasty dishes. It also provides a private banquet room for groups to rent and for service clubs to hold their meetings. Business has been brisk since the Red Apple opened the middle of December.

State could get fed funding to employ senior citizens

The governors of the 50 states, Puerto Rico, American Samoa, Guam, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands and the Virgin Islands, as well as the mayor of the District of Columbia, will have until Feb. 28 to notify the U.S. Department of Labor of their intention to apply for a share of a $15,234,000 project grant under the Senior Community Service Employment Program (SCSEP).

The grant is intended to provide 3,800 parttime community services jobs to low-income persons aged 55 and over for one year, beginning July 1.

In the Midwest, $577,000 of the $15.2 million has been reserved for Illinois; $323,000 for Indiana; $474,000 for Michigan; $246,000 for Minnesota; $646,000 for Ohio and $302,000 for Wisconsin.

This is the first time the Labor Department has taken steps to involve all state and territorial governments in the administration of this program. SCSEP is authorized by Title IX of the Older Americans Act as amended in 1975.

SCSEP projects currently operate in every state and territory and in the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. The great majority of these projects now are being sponsored by five national organizations—Green Thumb Inc., an arm of the National Farmers Union; the National Council on the Aging; the National Council of Senior Citizens; the National Retired Teachers Association-American Association of Retired Persons and the U. S. Forest Service.

For the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1977, Congress has provided an appropriation of $90.6 million to subsidize 22,600 jobs. During this period, 18,800 jobs will be under the sponsorship of the five national organizations and the remaining 3,800 jobs will be under state governments, with the Labor Department apportioning $15,234,000 for the latter.

Discretion is given to the governor to place responsibility for the administration and operation of the state's SCSEP grant in whichever state agency or organizational unit is deemed most appropriate. A governor may also choose to implement projects at the local level through subgrants with units of local government and private nonprofit organizations.

In the event a governor determines not to apply for the state's allotment, the governor may specify to the Labor Department the national organization it wishes to receive the allotment.

With their wages subsidized by the federal government, program participants work in a wide variety of activities, such as day-care centers, schools, hospitals, senior citizens, and beautification, conservation and restoration projects. In addition to subsidized employment, the program provides participants with yearly physical examinations, personal and job-related counseling, job training, and, in some cases, placement into regular, unsubsidized jobs.

Park shows off winter

The scenic hills and array of winter sports for family fun at Willow Metropark provide an excellent place to overcome midwinter doldrums, according to Automobile Club of Michigan's January Motor News magazine.

Operated by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, Willow Metropark, between Flat Rock and New Boston, offers moderate slopes for sledding, tobogganing and cross-country skiing, plus excellent ice skating on the park's lake areas.

There is no entry fee at the park this time of year and there's plenty of nearby free parking, Motor News noted.

VA has toll-free numbers

Western Wayne County veterans are reminded that they have a toll-free telephone service to the Veterans Administration (VA) in Detroit.

Frank J. Kilcullen Jr., director of the regional office, said the VA maintains 12 separate wide area telephone system (WATS) numbers in addition to the Detroit local number.

Eleven different cities have direct lines to the regional office, and for all others there is an 800-toll-free number.

Kilcullen said veterans who live within the area of the first three digits of the VA WATS number have only to dial the number. If they live outside of one of the 11 areas, any veteran in Michigan should dial 1-800-482-0740.

Veterans who wish to call the VA from Ann Arbor should dial 662-2506, in Battle Creek, 962-7568; Bay City, 894-4556; East Lansing, 484-7713; Lansing, 484-7713; Flint, 234-8646; Grand Rapids, 456-8511; Jackson, 787-7030; Kalamazoo, 344-0156; Muskegon, 726-4895; Saginaw, 754-7475.

For veterans living in Detroit the number is 964-5110, or if their call would be a toll call, they can use the 800-number.

Barr: County faces 'chaos'

The state's largest county may be headed for "fiscal chaos" this year unless the state comes to the rescue. John Barr of Dearborn Heights, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, issued that warning in his acceptance speech after being re-elected chairman by a unanimous vote of his board colleagues.

Jarrette Simmons, who last year became the first woman to serve as board vice-chairman, was elected unanimously to retain the No. 2 spot this year.

Barr and Mrs. Simmons were chosen at the board's first meeting of the new 2-year term of office. The chairman and vice-chairman are selected annually.

In his speech, Barr predicted the county will run out of money by the end of August unless a combination of new revenues and economies in county operations is achieved.

He blamed the financial crunch on a squeeze between rising costs and the county's inability to increase its income. The major cost increases relate to the jailing and prosecution of criminal defendants, Barr said. "Constantly increasing criminal justice system costs have skyrocketed out of sight and still are going up," he stated. "In the last six years, these costs have risen from $28.5 million to $52 million."

"We all know demands from the sheriff, the prosecuting attorney and from the courts will continue to mount. We also know that the State Constitution limits the amount of taxes we can levy to meet these rising costs of crime."

Barr said he is preparing a package of requests for special state grants and for state assumption of some county criminal justice costs in order to help Wayne County "with our devastating criminal justice needs."

"We have one-third of the state population in our county and, I expect, about one-half the state's crime," he added. "We are different from Livingston County and Calhoun County, and the state must treat us differently."

Barr said he also is "hopeful that the new administration in Washington will be more understanding of the problems of local governments — particularly urban counties."

However, the county also must look toward reducing expenditures because it is "not realistic" to expect state and federal sources to provide all the needed money.

He said: "In government, when you talk about reducing expenditures, you are talking about reducing services — and very probably, reducing personnel."

Barr said personnel reductions could be achieved by increasing the number of county jobs that must be left vacant when employees retire or resign rather than by lay offs.

Barr also suggested a number of procedures through which Board of Commissioners committees would give the budgets of county departments closer scrutiny.

I-275 freeway opens Friday

Romulus city officials will gather with county and state representatives Friday morning to dedicate the opening of I-275, one of the state's major interstate highways.

The ceremony, which is slated for 11 a.m., is scheduled at the I-94 interchange and will mark the long-awaited completion of the north-south freeway from Monroe through populous southeastern Michigan.

Heading up the honors will be State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-Romulus) who has called I-275 one of the safest freeways ever designed and constructed. Expected to help him mark the occasion will be Romulus Mayor James Stewart and members of City Council, county Commissioner Ed Harris, State Sen. William Faust and other dignitaries.

"We feel this is one of the safest freeways ever constructed," Mahalak said. "It incorporates wide medians, independent roadways to avoid headlight glare, concrete bridge barriers, flat roadside slopes, obstacle-free roadways with breakaway safety signs and long-span bridges with one central pier to reduce accidents."

Mayor Stewart was highly pleased that the new freeway is completed and mentioned its positive effect on Romulus business and industry.

"I think it's a real asset to Romulus and will afford us more tax base," he said. "We mainly are an industrial-oriented city, because of our location between two major airports, two interstate highways and railroad facilities. This new freeway should definitely bring more industry to the city."

Stewart also expects State Highway Department officials to be on hand for the ceremony.

Mahalak also was highly pleased with the layout of the new north-south freeway.

"Both scenic and environmental considerations were given high priority and roadside trees and wooded areas were preserved wherever possible, making the freeway one of the most scenic drives in southeastern Michigan," he said.

He pointed out that the freeway, exclusive of right-of-way and engineering, cost $145 million.

"In addition to the freeway, an 8-foot-wide paved parallel path was constructed along the entire route to serve both bicycle and pedestrian traffic."

"In addition to the freeway, an 8-foot-wide paved parallel path was constructed along the entire route to serve both bicycle and pedestrian traffic," the state representative explained.

Dedication of the path is scheduled for this summer.

Mahalak added that although some additional work remains to be completed on I-275 in the spring, the roadway remain open to traffic, starting Friday.

What do you think?

Van Buren School District is conducting a survey of its 1976 Belleville High School graduates to find out what they are doing and how well they feel school programs have served their needs.

The information obtained from the survey forms, which should be completed and returned by Monday, will be used in planning better school programs, according to district officials.

The 5-part survey deals with how well the high school or area vocational education center courses prepared students for what they are doing now.

Part 2 seeks information on how their schooling helped students find a job, and Part 3 mainly is for those seeking work, whom they have asked for help in locating a job and where they have looked.

Part 4 is related to further education, what school they are attending, their major area of study or training and how much their education or vocational training is helping them. Also, they're asked who has been of assistance in getting them into their present educational program.

Part 5 is reserved for comments by the person filling out the survey and asks for comments and suggestions how to improve the high school teaching program.

Sumpter seniors net tax credit assistance

Sumpter Township will assist senior citizens with their Homestead Property Tax Credit forms for the fourth consecutive year, according to Township Clerk Jim Reeves.

"Many people don't realize it, but we have been providing this service to senior citizens of Sumpter Township for the past three years; this will be our fourth year helping them," said Pat Jordan, secretary to Supervisor Robert Demski.

"Citizens who did not apply for homestead credit in 1975 can still apply for it this year, because they have two years to file their claims," she added.

Forms are available at the township hall, 23483 Sumpter Road, and free assistance is available for the asking.

"It's important for senior citizens to find out exactly how much deduction they can take. Sometimes it can be a little complicated, so we ask residents to call and let us set up a time when we can help them with their forms," Ms. Jordan said.

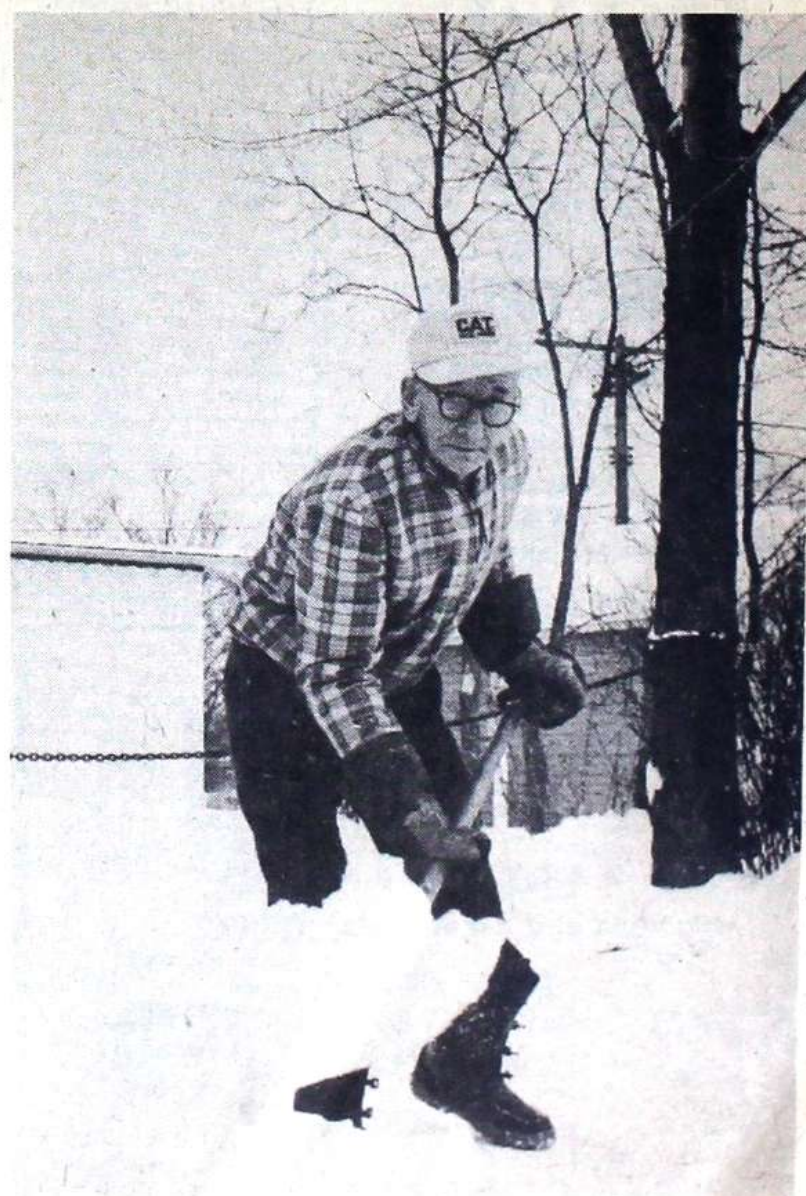

She said senior citizens should bring in their last tax bill, amount of their last pension and social security check and any other income they have received during the year.

Each elderly person is allowed a $1,500 deduction on their tax return but each senior citizen over 65 is permitted two $1,500 deductions. Therefore, a husband and wife, both over 65 years of age, can claim four $1,500 deductions.

The Homestead Property Tax Credit claim is for three groups of people — senior citizens 65 years and older, the totally disabled and those who are veterans or are blind.

The Sumpter Township Hall telephone number is 697-0900.

'I do it myself'

Albert Varescheer, 70 years young, shows youngsters how efficiently he shovels Monday's 8-inch snowfall from his driveway at 308 Edison, Belleville. "I have to do it myself," said the spry senior citizen. "I live on Social Security and can't afford to have it done for me." Albert's chore was repeated many times over by area residents who had to dig out from the hefty snowfall that closed schools and hindered businesses. — ANP photo.

To metropolitan Detroit

'Dancers' introduces six new ballets

Born in controversy and dedicated to revolutionary change, Dennis Wayne's new contemporary ballet company, "Dancers", will make its Detroit debut at the Music Hall on Jan. 28 and 29.

Introducing at least six ballets never before seen in Detroit, the two evening performances will feature different programs, while the Saturday matinee will be a combination of both.

A smaller version of "Dancers" had a somewhat premature premiere in 1975 at the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival and at the City Center Downstairs in New York. A premiere dancer with New York's American Ballet Theater (ABT) at the time, Dennis Wayne gathered a cast of eight, mostly fellow ABT dancers, for those engagements, which were scheduled during the 16-week ABT off-season.

Prior to the New York engagement, ABT co-director Lucia Chase, dropped a bomb in the form of an ultimatum that either Wayne disassociate himself from his off-season activities or leave the American Ballet Theater. She theorized that a dancer could not split his artistic dedication, and Wayne felt that she should not be able to enforce four months of unemployment on ABT dancers.

The two locked horns publicly and privately, resulting in Wayne's resignation last year after completing the 1975-76 season. Five other resolute ABT dancers left with him, providing a stellar nucleus for the current troupe of 12 dancers, which also includes premiere dancers Lawrence Rhodes of Detroit and Donna Cowen from the Joffrey Ballet.

A professional since 1964, 31-year-old Dennis Wayne had been a featured dancer with the Harkness and Joffrey ballets prior to joining the American Ballet Theater. He has been trying to form his own company since 1970, with two previous companies — "Ballet 70s" and "The American Ballet Company" — being short lived.

It wasn't until Wayne met actress Joanne Woodward while making his screen acting debut with her in the movie, "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams", that the idea that has become "Dancers" really took off.

An avid ballet buff, Miss Woodward has supported the company, not only financially but also with personal involvement. She is chairman of the Board of "Dancers", and travels with the company when her acting schedule allows.

"Dancers" is not just an overly obvious name for a dance troupe, but rather it is symbolic of Wayne's attitude that a ballet company be dancer-oriented. Each ballet is selected and then refined to utilize each dancer's particular talents.

Although the ballets to be seen at the Music Hall will range from the gentle and calm ("Of Us Two") to the rowdy and lusty ("Musete De Taverni"), all of it will vibrate with Wayne's own penchant for the energetic and dramatic.

The all important musical accompaniment also shows the search for artistic expansion with the range extending from the melodies of Debussy to the modern musique concrete of Pierre Schaeffer, from the classicism of

Entertainment

Beethoven to the Mexican ethnic instrumentation of Chavez.

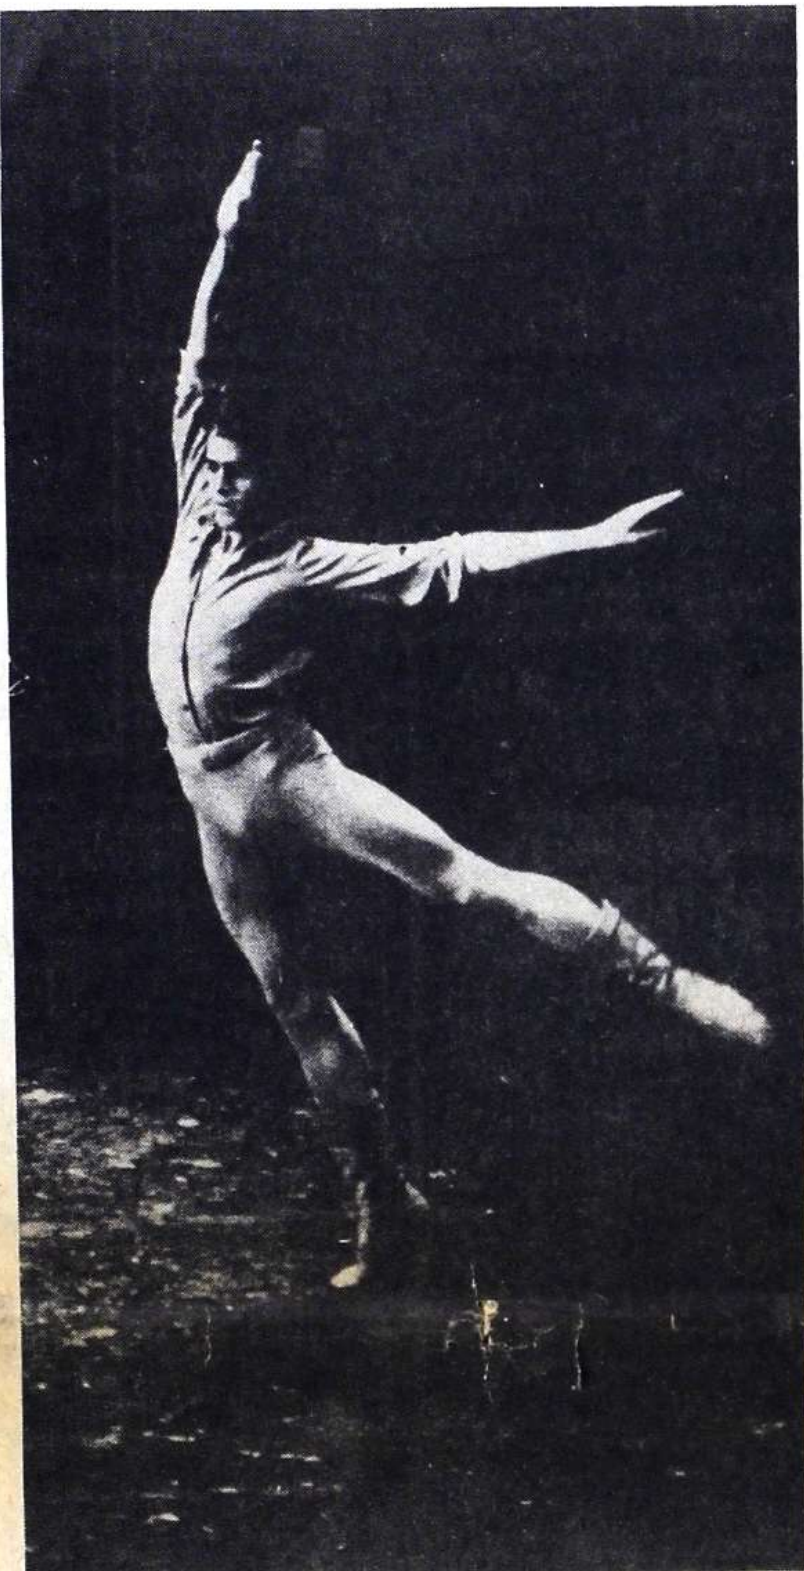

The six Detroit premiere performances include "And the Dawn Surprises No One", choreographed by Marcus

Schulkind, and "Lovers" by Francois Szony. Both were performed for the first time ever by "Dancers" last month in Florida. Three others — "Of Us Two" and "The Murder of George Keuter"

(based on the real life thrill killing of the choreographer's cousin), both by Cliff Keuter, and "Paven for a Solo Dancer" by Norman Walker — were world premiered in 1975.

"Dancers" will present two 8:30 p.m. evening performances at the Music Hall on Jan. 28 and 29, and a 2 p.m. matinee on Jan. 29. Tickets can be obtained by calling 963-7680, or at the Music Hall box office at 350

Madison Avenue, three blocks off the southbound Chrysler Freeway on the Madison exit.

DENNIS WAYNE'S DANCERS

'Othello' to join Hilberry playbill

The opening of Shakespeare's "Othello" at the Hilberry Theatre Feb. 2, will be the first for this play at the Hilberry, but is a second "Othello" opening for its leading actor and director.

Walter Mason, making his first appearance at the Hilberry as Othello, and director Richard Spear, who regularly has staged productions at the Hilberry since its first season, worked together in the same capacity in a production of "Othello" at the Bonstelle Theatre in 1954.

The current production of Shakespeare's tight-knit domestic tragedy previews Friday and Saturday Jan. 28 and 29, opens officially Feb. 2, and continues that week, Feb. 3 and 5 — at 8:30 p.m. Its first high school matinee performance will be at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 9. "Othello" will continue in the repertory through April 30.

Since playing the title role in the 1954 Bonstelle production, Walter Mason, a native Detroit, has been working professionally as actor, director and producer in New York, throughout the country and abroad, most recently as director and production manager for Sammy Davis Jr. He has returned to Wayne State to join the Hilberry company and to complete the degree toward which he was working when he first played Othello.

The new Hilberry actor has a long list of acting credits, including roles in the Broadway productions of "A Raisin in the Sun" and "Golden Boy" and in several Lincoln Center productions, Purlie in "Purlie Victorious" for the Hedgerow Theater and national tour, Caliban in "The Tempest" at the Folger Shakespeare Library with William Ball, Ellis Rabb and Arnold Moss, and the title role in "Othello" three times in New York.

As the Hilberry's Othello, Mason will be joined by Michel Cullen as Iago, Monique Morgan as Desdemona, Michael Tylo as Cassio, Rhonda Smith as Emilia and Michael Rothhaar as Roderigo.

Science by touch

The Detroit Science Center knows that children learn best when they actually take part in scientific experiments, and in its present location at 52 F. Forest — right off Woodward in Detroit's Cultural Center — children not only see science in action they can take part, a spokesman said.

They operate exhibits that prove things always are not what they seem — how electricity produces magnetism, how well you can trust your own sense and how good are your own reflexes.

Group tours are welcome. Admission is free, but since the Detroit Science Center operates solely through voluntary contributions, so donations are welcome.

The Science Center is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 12 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

$9 million held by state

County seeks psychiatric hospital funds

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has called for the immediate release of up to $9 million in mental health funds for Wayne County Psychiatric Hospital that currently are being held up at the state level.

A resolution, introduced by Commissioner Royce E. Smith, stated that Wayne County would be forced to "shut down the county psychiatric hospital" located in Westland unless the state released the hospital's share of the 1976-77 mental health funds.

Smith's resolution was introduced at the first full board meeting of the year, held Jan. 6. The proposal received emergency consideration and was unanimously supported by the 27-member legislative body.

"The State Legislature has appropriated statewide funding for mental health services, but the Milliken administration is sitting on the distribution while hospitals strain to provide the public with this essential care," Smith said. His resolution calls for intervention on the part of Gov. Milliken and state legislators to gain release of the funds "without further stalling what could create a potentially dangerous mental health crisis."

Under Public Act 258, the state provides up to 90 percent funding of mental health services, with the county contributing 10 percent.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners had approved a $10.5 million budget for the psychiatric hospital for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

However, the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, which is the agency responsible for seeking and distributing state funds in the county, has asked state officials for a $9 million maximum funding of the psychiatric hospital, Smith reported.

"It's my understanding that the Mental Health Board felt that Lansing might not want to approve as much as $9 million and that the board also has plans of its own to institute new programs that would require seed money," Smith said. "I don't feel we should begin funding new programs before we adequately fund the existing ones — and I am quite sure that the public would be outraged if the hospital had to close."

"It's the only psychiatric hospital that provides 24-hour, 7-day week emergency and inpatient service for psychiatric patients living in Western Wayne County and parts of Detroit," he added. "Right now, there's a patient waiting list to get in. There's always a waiting list and the hospital operates its 124-bed capacity at a 100 percent occupancy level. They even fill beds on weekends when other patients are on home visits."

Smith said he wants the hospital expanded to 150 beds, and even that "won't be sufficient to handle the needs of the community," and that the Mental Health Board should be barred from distributing any money for other programs until the hospital is adequately funded.

"I am also concerned about the strain the state is placing on county tax dollars," he said. "Even without the '77 funding, the state owes the County of Wayne $5 million for the operation of the psychiatric hospital from July 1, 1975 to Sept. 30, 1976."

"This is an illegal burden for county taxpayers to be forced to carry."

Smith is a Democrat from Belleville and is a member of the county Board of Health which oversees total health planning.

Interviewers survey type of health care residents use

Interviews for the National Medical Care Expenditure, a joint federal effort of the National Center for Health Services Research (NCHSR) and the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS), will be in the Wayne County area for a 17-month period to collect data about personal health care.

In 1975, the American public spent $118 billion on personal health care, yet little is known about what services were used, who used them and who eventually paid the bill.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) plans to find out by conducting the 2-year National Medical Care Expenditure Survey of 11,500 families, or about 36,000 people throughout the United States, beginning this month.

Approximately 400 interviewers are asking the families about illnesses, injuries and other health problems experienced during 1977, about the type and expense of health care received, and about health insurance coverage and prescription drugs. The households are being selected by scientific random sampling techniques so that individuals interviewed will be representative of the nation as a whole.

Each household will be interviewed seven times over a period of 17 months. The first two interviews and the last will be conducted in the home. The others will be by telephone.

All information collected will be confidential and will be used only for statistical reporting purposes. No information identifying an individual or family will be released.

With the written permission of persons being interviewed, the researchers also will talk to physicians and hospitals to get more detailed estimates of family expenditures for medical care. Also with written permission, insurance companies will be contacted to obtain detailed information regarding health benefits coverage carried by families of people interviewed.

Information collected by the survey will be analyzed by NCHSR and NCHS. Published statistical reports and public use data tapes will be available to individuals and organizations in the health field to help them make decisions about major health policy issues such as access to health services, financing health care and national health insurance.

The data collection phase will be completed by December 1978 and final results will be available six to eight months later.

Oakwoods nature area has 'wealth'

The Nature Study Area of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock is providing a wealth of information in winter for visitors taking self-guided hikes along its nature trails.

The three trails range from a half mile to more than two miles. Visitors might see a variety of animal tracks or animals, including the white-tailed deer, a host of winter birds, the red fox, muskrat, both red and fox squirrels, pheasants and rabbits. Trails are open 8 a.m. to dusk daily.

Supervising naturalist Robert Wittersheim suggests visitors dress warmly and wear the proper foot gear.

Three bird feeding stations are located in the Nature Study Area.

One is near the Nature Center. One along the Split-Log Trail, and the last at the starting point for the three nature trails.

Typical winter birds include the downy woodpecker, white-breasted nuthatch, chickadee, tufted titmouse, cardinal, dark-eyed junco and tree sparrow.

Inside the Nature Center there are several winter exhibits, including one on the Screech Owl, the three species of tree squirrels and winter sky exhibit.

Nature Center Building hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Brochures and other details are available at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark or by calling 782-1255.

Classes start up at Cleary College

Classes have resumed for the winter term at Cleary College in Ypsilanti, however, registrations for courses being offered will continue through Friday.

Established in 1883, Cleary is a specialized senior college of business education, offering 1-year programs in the secretarial sciences and 2- and 4-year degree programs in business administration, management, accounting, court reporting and advanced secretarial studies.

Courses in speedwriting, typing, shorthand and bookkeeping also are available for special non-degree students who require skill improvement training for employment purposes.

The college prepares students to enter the business profession as company managers in private industry, public administrators in government, junior and senior accountants and legal, medical and executive secretaries.

Students can attend on a full or parttime basis, and classes are held daily, at night and on weekends.

For further information on the programs at Cleary College call 483-4400.

Master gardeners sought

If you are an experienced gardener and willing to help others, you may be qualified to enter Michigan State University's Master Gardener Program.

The program is co-sponsored by the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service and the Wayne County Community College. Training sessions are scheduled from 1 to 4:15 p.m. Tuesday, beginning Feb. 1 and running through April 5, at the Wayne County Intermediate School District, 33550 Van Born, Wayne.

Interested persons should write to the Wayne County Cooperative

Service at P.O. Box 550, Wayne 48184, or call 721-6550, for tuition fees, class content and an application blank. The first class will be limited to 35 participants. Persons passing the course will be awarded a master gardener certificate and two credits through the Wayne County Community College.

'This fight is our cup of tea'

In the last 18 months the price of coffee has risen from $1.29, to almost $4.00 a pound in some places, and at the same time, The International Coffee Organization has announced a worldwide promotional campaign to sell more coffee.

This group's American affiliate, The National Coffee Association, is planning to spend $9 million in the U.S. to counter the efforts of those supporting the buying public's coffee boycott.

This money is part of a $56 million worldwide advertising campaign by The International Coffee Organization aimed at overcoming consumer opposition to higher coffee prices.

The president of the Brazilian Coffee Institute, Camilo Calazans, stated, that he expected coffee prices to remain high throughout 1977 because his country's July harvest was less than anticipated due to a killing frost that damaged 73.5 percent of their coffee trees.

The Institute further stated that Brazilian coffee growers who earned record profits last year are not concerned about American attempts to boycott their product.

Calazans also stated, that a boycott of coffee would have to be long and intense in order to push the price of coffee down, and he doubted that American consumers would be capable of accomplishing that.

These statements then, by the Brazilian Coffee Institute and their parent group, The International Coffee Organization, imply that in spite of the ridiculous price of coffee, and their equally ridiculous record breaking profits of past years, they still do not have enough.

It is obvious that coffee producers might well thumb their nose at the consumers of this country, coming off as they are, four straight years of record breaking profits, peaking at $2.3 billion last year.

An indication of just how dedicated this cartel is, to ripping-off the coffee drinkers of the world, lies in the fact that the $56 million they are going to spend on their campaign to beat the boycott, would buy 43,410,082 pounds of their product, almost enough coffee to supply the needs of every resident of Wayne County for a full year. More importantly though, where is that $56 million coming from? The answer is obvious. It's coming from, and is partly responsible for today's absurd coffee prices.

The gauntlet has been hurled. The American Consumer has been challenged. Coffee growers, producers, and processors have stated that they are not concerned about an American coffee boycott. These same groups have implied that we have no choice but to continue paying their price if we want coffee, and they have indicated that the American consumer does not have the backbone for a long drawnout boycott of coffee.

We think they are wrong. We think consumers throughout this country should take a stand and resist this Coffee Cartel Rip-off. There are few things in the world that can match an American's dedication to a good cause, we think this is a good cause. We think this fight is just our cup of tea.

Steps towards self government

By JOHN W. GARDNER

A great phrase from the Declaration of Independence describes what we Americans have sought over the years—"a government that derived its just powers from the consent of the governed."

To every American schoolchild over the generations that meant free elections; and for a long time most of us imagined that that was all we had to worry about. We thought that if we voted on election day and the elections weren't rigged, the system would work pretty well.

But it hasn't been working well. You know the realities. Candidates make promises and ignore them after election. Corruption has flourished. Government has been inefficient. Government officials have abused power, invaded our privacy, endangered our liberties.

We cannot accept any of that as inevitable. We want a government—and government officials—that citizens can call to account, not just on election day but continuously.

If we're going to straighten it out for the sake of all the American people, for the sake of the nation and its future, we're going to have to make government accountable. Accountability comes first. To accomplish all the other desirable things, first we have to regain command of our political and governmental processes.

A necessary first step is campaign finance reform. We don't want elected officials who feel primarily accountable to their heavy contributors rather than to the voters. Now a great many of us belong to some special interest group that makes political contributions to officials. And being human, we don't think it's really so bad if those officials then lean in our direction. But none of us wants public officials to be influenced by money from people we disagree with or disapprove of. But that's the way it happens. Money comes in from all kinds of sources, and it demeans those elected officials it doesn't corrupt. You and I can't possibly know all the decisions that are determined by the endless flow of dollars.

A second major step in making the political process accountable is to bring about open government. Obviously everything about government can't be open—national security matters, for example—but almost everything can. You know all too well that there are many things government does which you don't like—things that are wrong or wasteful or scandalous. And you ask that familiar question "How do they get away with it?" Well, mainly they get away with it because you don't know—can't know—what's going on. You can't call your government officials to account if you don't know what they're doing.

A further step toward accountability is to place constraints upon the conflicts of interest that inevitably arise in government. For example, we must deal with the regulatory commission member who comes from the group being regulated, spends several years making decisions favorable to the regulated group and then returns to a high-paying post in that group.

Still another step is to ensure that the Department of Justice does its job. We need an Attorney General who is chosen for professional distinction and not for prominence in party politics.

If we work to improve our processes of self-government, we will create political and governmental processes of which we can be proud. Only then can we attract good people to government. And only then will our political and governmental processes be worthy of the trust and confidence of the American people.

A former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, John Gardner is Chairman of Common Cause.

On the brighter side

Just yes or no, Buster

By JIM BRADLEY

"Would you like a cup of coffee this morning?"

This is the question the red-haired waitress asked after taking my order for bacon and eggs. It seemed like such a simple, unassuming question, barely audible among the chatter of early morning customers at a local restaurant. The clatter of dishes and sizzling sound on the stove helped drown out the question.

I considered the implications of her question — "Would I like to have a cup of coffee this morning?"

If I say "no," then my coffee-boycotting friends will rejoice and feel they have won a convert. If I say "yes," then grim faces will turn my way to see this renegade who's helping boost coffee prices so high.

The restaurant was bustling with noise and the corner jukebox was playing a loud, boisterous song. No one would hear my answer above the din, I thought. But just as I started to open my mouth to answer, silence fell over the entire restaurant.

You'd have thought I just said: "My broker is E. F. Hutton, and he says..."

People in surrounding booths leaned their bodies toward me and strained their ears to catch my answer. Now, I'm quite an easy-going guy who likes to get along with as many people as possible. Arguments are just no my "cup of tea" (if you'll excuse the expression).

"Is it a plain 'yes' or 'no' that you want?" I asked mildly, seeking some way to melt the icy stares cast in my direction.

"Well, it's certainly not a multiple choice question, buster," she wisecracked, chomping her gum a little faster. "Besides, what is so hard about saying yes or no? People do it every day."

I thought briefly of the time in history when "the shot heard around the world," occurred. This could be the "cup heard as far as Columbia or Brazil," so I mumbled, half-aloud, "Decisions, decisions, always decisions..." trying to stall for a little time. I peeked cautiously over the top of my large menu to see if "E. F. Hutton's friends" still had their ears open. They did. "Well..." the waitress asked dramatically.

I felt embarrassed. Surrounded by a sea of faces and enclosed by ears bigger than coffee cups, I felt trapped. Such a simple question, I thought. Either I have a cup of coffee or I don't — it was no big thing, really. My mind, half asleep in the early morning and needing a "shot in the arm," begged me to say "yes." My half-closed eyes demanded an eye-opener and my body, raised for years on the strong black liquid, wouldn't take "no" for an answer.

On the other hand, what would Ken say if he heard I'd taken a cup of coffee? He would be crushed. Because it was Ken, the one who keeps the coffee pot perking at our newspaper office, that had posted the "no-nonsense" sign recently in the back room. It read in large hand written letters: "COFFEE LOVERS — The coffee boycott is on. When our present supply is gone, there won't be any more bought at these prices. If you must, bring your own and help keep the price soaring ever upward..."

What could I tell Lothar when he came right out in his delightful German accent and asked me plainly, "Chim, did you drink any coffee this morning?"

And what about Sue, our news editor who works her fingers to the bone typing stories — who sacrifices daily by drinking Lipton's instant tea? Would a sip of hot coffee be a cold shoulder to them all?

These thoughts whirled around in my head as the waitress sat down in the booth across from me, patiently awaiting my reply. She probably didn't even realize that my answer could effect the entire future of the South American countries of Columbia and Brazil.

And what about my good friend, Juan Valdez, the coffee-taster from Columbia? Would my decision affect his job? I'd hate to be the cause of his family going hungry.

I recalled former years when times were simpler and life a lot easier, like ...

When coffee was 10 cents a cup.

When you could meet innocently "over a cup of coffee."

When a guy entered a restaurant and ordered: "Two blonds and a brunette" — meaning three coffees, two with cream and one black.

When you heard the saying: "Everything I like is either illegal, immoral or fattening." Now, with the rise in coffee prices, you can add — expensive!

When I boiled water for instant coffee in a "tea" kettle.

When the Andrews Sisters (remember them?) sang, "They've Got an Awful Lot of Coffee in Brazil."

But times have changed and we must take a stand, I decided. I will not have a cup of coffee this morning. Ken, Lothar and Sue will surely be proud of me. Not to mention my managing editor (the one who resembles Sherlock Holmes' younger brother), whose survey revealed the past four years had seen record-setting profits for the coffee-producing countries.

"No, I don't think I'll have any coffee this morning," I said triumphantly.

The waitress looked slowly up at me and replied coldly, "You won't get any coffee from me, anyway. You took so long to answer, I drank the entire pot myself."

As I glanced at the evening newspaper before supper, several isolated thoughts crept into my mind. If coffee prices continue to rise much higher, will you be able to buy it on the "black" market? And if it's sold by underworld characters, you'll be able to buy a "hot" cup of coffee.

My wife served coffee with our evening meal and I was a little flabbergasted. "Aren't you going along with the coffee boycott?" I asked. "There'll be coffee in this house as long as you and I are married," she said firmly.

"Why?" I inquired.

She smiled sardonically and replied: "That way, I'll always have 'grounds' for divorce."

I wonder if Juan Valdez needs another coffee-taster down in South America...

Apothecaries by any other name....

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations,
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

In some countries, such as England and Canada, they are generally called Chemists. In other cultures, the Orient for example, they are known as Apothecaries.

In America, we have learned to call them Pharmacists, and they are practitioners in a profession which provides a valuable and highly critical service.

"At Annapolis Hospital," said Neil Caldwell, R. Ph. (Registered Pharmacist), we dispense approximately 1.5 million units-of-use medications to our patients each year.

"We have available for prescribing by, our staff physicians better than 5000 types of medications. Our inventory is exceptional."

Caldwell, who is the Chief of the Pharmacy Department at Annapolis, has been with the hospital since it first opened its doors in 1957.

He is a native of Detroit (MacKenzie High School on the West side) and a graduate of Wayne State University where he earned a dual major: a BS in Chemistry and a BS in Pharmacy.

He said that the principal responsibility of the pharmacist is to monitor and control all of the medications in the hospital.

"A physician writes the order for a particular medication — indeed, that is the only person who has such authority — and that order is transmitted to the pharmacy where it is executed and the medication is then returned to the patient floor for administration by the bedside nurse," he said.

Pharmacology can be defined as the study of the effects of drugs on the body. As researchers develop more and more disease-fighting agents, the practice of pharmacy becomes more and more complicated.

"We are gradually noticing an increase in medications which have synergistic actions," he said, "and we must be acutely aware of the possible ramifications of these incompatibilities."

The safety and well being of the patients always come first; hence, the pharmacist must spend a portion of his time in checking new medications and their relationships to older medications, attending seminars and workshops for continuing education, and following closely the literature of the profession.

The metric system of weights holds no fear for the professional pharmacist. He's used it all during his formal education, and uses it daily in the preparation of medications.

"And I'd like to make a point here," said Caldwell. "Accuracy and efficiency are, in my judgment, the two most important assets a pharmacist must possess. If an order says 100 milligrams, that's precisely what means. Our people are used to working to close tolerances, and it's the patients who benefit from our attention to detail."

For young people who are thinking about a career in pharmacy, Caldwell advises that they include in their high school studies all of the basic sciences: physics, mathematics, chemistry, physiology. And he added, "fundamental education in the liberal arts won't hurt a bit." As an expression of the later, Caldwell is the editor of the monthly employee news magazine published by the Annapolis Hospital.

The staff at Annapolis is comprised of seven registered pharmacists, and seven pharmacy technicians. In addition, one student from The University of Michigan School of Pharmacy is now doing a six-month internship under Caldwell's guidance and evaluation.

He explained that the internship is required in Michigan before one can take the State Boards and attain the designation of Registered Pharmacist.

Like most hospital functions, the service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Often, much like other health care specialists, the pharmacist must forget about the 8-hour day or the 5-day week.

"Our first consideration is to the patients in need," he said, "and at times our consultations with physicians, nurses, and other pharmacists must of necessity take place after our normal working hours."

Because Annapolis Hospital is an operating unit of the PCHA, patients can rest assured that medications will always be available without an inordinate wait.

Caldwell said that if there is a "run" on a certain medication, and his pharmacy is temporarily out of that particular item, all he has to do is pick up the telephone and contact one of the other PCHA hospital pharmacies and he will have the medication almost before he can get back to start processing the order.

The benefits which accrue to patients because of Annapolis' affiliation with PCHA are obvious: costs of medications are lower because of the ability to purchase in large unit doses, and medications are always available in at least one of the pharmacies.

He concluded the interview by saying, "Too often people think of pharmacists only as people who put tablets in a bottle. True, we do, with exactitude and precision, dispense medication in tablet form. However, we also prepare intravenous solutions, load hypodermic syringes, mix medications, and maintain a daily control sheet on all narcotic agents which are ordered."

"The work can be exhausting because of the tensions resulting from our efforts. Still, when you see a patient leave the hospital, cured of a disease, the exhaustion becomes exhilaration."

Troutt editorial finds support

To the Editor:

As a homeowner and taxpayer of the City of Romulus I would like to respond to the large amount of space on your editorial pages in the last three issues of the Romulus Roman, relating to former Mayor Terry L. Troutt and the present administration.

First may I compliment and thank you for your timely and constructive suggestion to Mr. Troutt imploring him to be more objective concerning the water rate increase.

I have no met Barry Baumann and have no desire to do so, as his vituperative letter projects an image I am all too familiar with.

That image was created by the fanatic supporters of Mr. Troutt in the last Mayoral election campaign. The "Troutt Team" was the favorite slogan used throughout the campaign. I think a more appropriate description of Troutt's active supporters should have been the Troutt Gang.

I used to support Mr. Troutt in his campaigns for Township Supervisor and State Senator.

After examining the character of many of his followers and the gangster-like tactics used against Mayor Stewart by them, I was repelled.

Here are some of the tactics employed against Mr. Stewart. Vandalism, i.e. tearing down and destroying campaign posters. Dirty politics, i.e. circulating a flyer publication, containing vicious and malicious allegations against Mr. Stewart, on the eve of the primary election, thus precluding any possibility for Mr. Stewart to respond before the election; and finally arson, i.e. Mr. Stewart's campaign headquarters trailer was burned down.

Now let me state plainly that I am not implying that Mr. Troutt personally had any part of, or even knowledge of, the incidents I have described. But who can doubt that the incident that occurred at the restaurant in Wayne was planned by whoever called the Sheriff's Dept., in an attempt to harass Mayor Stewart?

So much for the zealots. Now a few observations about Mr. Troutt himself. The record, I think, will bear out that Mr. Troutt has not always been motivated by altruism.

What about a much coveted liquor license that he received when he retired as Township Supervisor? What about getting his taxes reduced on the property occupied by "Terry's Lounge?"

Did Mr. Troutt really have the taxpayer's interest in mind when he did everything possible to thwart the majority of the voters (even though the margin was slim) in the last election?

As to the water rate question; any realistic-minded person knows that the water bill will have to be paid either by an increase in the water rate or by taxes under some other label. There is no such thing as a free lunch.

When Mr. Troutt was Mayor he seems to have been very adept in the old shell game of shifting millage allocations earmarked for one department into the general fund.

In fact I have just learned that Mr. Troutt reallocated three mills earmarked for the Water Dept. into the general fund, leaving only four mills to operate the Water Dept. So there would be no water rate problem today if Mr. Troutt had not reshuffled the millage allocations.

Editor's note...

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

Anyone of any age is invited to submit an open letter to their community or to the editor of Associated Newspapers.

We will publish letters on any subject. If you feel you have a plan for solving a city problem, or wish to comment on someone's plan, this space is being reserved for you.

If you or your group would like to address the community at large, or just an individual, this space is reserved for you.

If you think you can do it better, cheaper, faster, or with more flair, this is the place to tell everyone about it.

You are invited to send your opinions on events, or items of public interest, to the editor of Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne, 48184.

Names will be withheld from letters published, only for very good reason. The reason must be included in the letter.

The editor reserves the right to edit and/or condense letters where necessary.

Associated Newspapers has just given you a public voice. If a story is worth telling to your neighbor, why not tell it to your whole community.

Patient's Bill of Rights

By THOMAS H. BROWN
State Representative
37th District

This will insure a person's basic right to be treated with respect and dignity...

Just what rights do you or a loved one have as a patient?

It depends upon the policies and attitudes of hospitals and medical personnel, and a number of other factors, but it does not depend upon any state law for there is no law that guarantees the rights of patients.

The thought may not be pleasant, but the average American is hospitalized 11 times during his or her lifetime. Few people look forward to a hospital stay, but to make it as easy and comfortable as possible, the patient should be assured of certain basic rights.

Just what the doctor ordered for your care does not necessarily include those rights. Hospitals, doctors and government are increasingly realizing that there is more involved in hospital care than medical treatment. Persons should not lose their dignity and right to respect just because they don't a hospital gown.

There have been complaints that the secrecy often found in hospitals, coupled with the confusion laymen find in medical language, takes away a vitally important right: the right to know what is going on that affects our bodies.

There is a demand for laws which guarantee the rights of patients.

In the last session of the Legislature, I introduced bills which spelled out a "patients' bill of rights" for hospitals, nursing homes and homes for the aged, and require that those rights be made known to patients.

When the House passed a revised public health code late in the session, the bills were incorporated into it. Unfortunately, because of the massive size of the code, the Senate did not have time to act upon it. The proposed new code, including the patients' bill of rights, will be reintroduced early in the new session and, hopefully, be processed quickly.

These guaranteed rights would have a positive impact upon every individual in the state. One of the bills I introduced covered hospitals; the other nursing homes and homes for the aged. Among other things, they offer the following patient protections:

PATIENTS in hospitals would have the right to full information, explained in layman's terms, about their diagnosis, treatment, prognosis, risks and possible side effects of recommended medical treatment or procedure, and the possibility of alternative forms of treatment.

A PATIENT would have the right to competent and considerate care regardless of race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status or ability to pay.

A PATIENT would have the right to the name and specialty of anyone involved in his or her care, in any way.

A PATIENT would have the right to privacy during treatment.

A PATIENT would have the right to confidentiality of all records involved in his or her care and treatment.

A PATIENT would have the right to discuss complaints with hospital personnel.

A PATIENT would have the right to be assigned a different physician.

A PATIENT would have the right to receive and have explained an itemized bill, regardless of the source of payment.

A PATIENT would have the right to examine his or her medical ASSOCIATED BELIEVES that one of the corner stones of a democracy is unrestricted communications.

Our society and way of life cannot survive, without the involvement of every citizen, in meaningful, productive communications with those we have selected as our leaders.

In the attempt of furthering the goal of better communication, Associated has extended invitations to the elected leaders of the communities we serve, to provide the citizens of their respective areas, with weekly messages concerning programs or projects which they feel are important to the community.

Associated invites response, to any of your leaders' comments or programs.

Working together we can build a better community.

D. FASSETT

A person's basic right to be treated with respect and dignity and to receive adequate care should not be suspended if the person is sick or elderly. Unfortunately, when a person reaches an elderly age he or she may forget about those rights or is too frail to demand them.

Patients in nursing homes receive a variety of treatments, medications and visits by doctors, as well as the basic food and shelter services provided by the facility. The patient may receive a monthly bill for all of these services, but many times they are not itemized.

Under my proposals, a patient would, upon request, receive a monthly itemized bill which would enable the patient or his or her representative to examine the bill to determine if the services billed were actually rendered.

Some person's religious or philosophical beliefs prohibit them from receiving medication. This would be recognized and the patient would have the right to refuse medication or treatment after being informed of an understanding the consequences of refusing the treatment.

The legislation would, for the first time, make the responsibility of the hospital, nursing home or home for the aged to the patient explicit and make it mandatory that the patient's rights be known to him or her. Presently, a patient rarely knows or understands those rights.

Most hospitals and homes and their staffs have and are doing a good job of fulfilling their responsibilities to patients. However, there have always been a few physicians and staff members who have violated patient rights and taken liberties that have left the patient with no recourse unless he or she suffers grave or permanent damages. The patients' bill of rights would be a major step toward correcting these situations.

A PATIENT would have the right to have a next of kin stay with him or her 24 hours a day, if so desired.

A PATIENT would have the right to an explanation of hospital rules which apply to patient conduct.

The proposal covering nursing homes and homes for the aged basically includes these same rights. In addition, the nursing home or home for the aged patient or resident would also be guaranteed the following:

THE RIGHT to present grievances to the facility's staff or administrator or governmental officials.

THE RIGHT to private communication with the physician, an attorney or anyone else.

THE RIGHT to manage his or her own financial affairs.

THE RIGHT to demand from the facility, on a monthly basis, an itemized statement of services rendered and paid for on behalf of the patient.

Hospitals, nursing homes and homes for the aged would be required to prominently post a statement of the rights and responsibilities of patients. If a patient is ruled legally incompetent, his or her rights would be exercised by a designated person.

A PATIENT would have the right to refuse treatment or to serve as a research subject.

A PATIENT could not be physically or chemically restrained, except on a physician's orders or in an emergency situation.

Stewart replies to Troutt

EDITORS NOTE:

Troutt contacted Associated Newspapers and requested an opportunity to respond to that editorial. Troutt's reply was published in the Jan. 5 Roman. Mayor Stewart has now requested an opportunity to present the administration's point of view.

January 5, 1977

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer: In reply to Mr. Troutt's editorial let's think together on this common sense issue of water and sewer rates.

Mr. Troutt refers to a 39 percent increase to the residents. The city water and sewer department has received from the city of Detroit since 1967 a 71 percent increase in water rates to the city and a 197 percent increase in sewer rates or a combined increase of 268 percent, instead of as stated by Mr. Troutt 39 percent, this increase has not been passed on to the residents.

As early as June of 1974 Mr. Troutt's administration recognized that we must increase water and sewer rates.

The city attorney of his administration at an approximate additional cost to the water and sewer department of $6,000.00 wrote a new ordinance with a proposed increase of 50 percent, along with a suggested increase in water and sewer tap fees.

The city council has of this date taken no action on this ordinance. Has Mr. Troutt reversed his position for political reasons since he left office?

Three firms selected by the city council have audited our records-Post, Smythe, Lutz and Ziel; Doyle, Litt & Company and Iceman, Johnson & Hoffman, at a cost to the city of $114,703.00 over a four year period. Each firm has recognized the inadequacy of the rates.

Iceman, Hoffman and Johnson our most recent auditor stated that "the proposed 39 percent increase was inadequate to cover increased cost and expenses and prior losses."

Does Mr. Troutt believe that there are more reputable firms than those listed above? Why is the city council willing to spend more of your tax dollars for another study?

Mr. Troutt says he tightened up the budget and cut expenses when he took office. However, the budget was reduced because he transferred four mills or $826,692.00 of sewer millage to the general fund and transferred four another $416,955.00 in cash to the general fund for purposes other than water and sewer.

In June of 1973 prior to Mr. Troutt taking office the expenditures of the water and sewer department were $1,282,712.00.

In June of 1974 after Mr. Troutt took office the expenditures were $1,513,775.00.

The decreases he refers to were in fact increases as stated in both audits.

During the Troutt administration, for the first time since the purchase of, DPW, Water and Sewer building, the general fund paid the land contract and did not charge the water department.

Which administration broke the water and sewer department? What method did he use to reduce the expenditures which he states he was able to do?

Let's discuss the builders tap-in fees and inspections which Mr. Troutt states are inadequate.

During his administration the sewer tap-in fees were increased from $550.00 to $900.00 which is one of the highest in Wayne County. However, as proven this increase did not offset the losses, due to the fact there is not enough single home construction.

Mr. Troutt says the home builders were excluded from the increase, why not ask anyone who has built a home recently, if he was excluded from paying the new fee?

The water and sewer department receives 90 percent of their budget from the sale of water and sewer services. It is obvious Mr. Troutt did not delve into the records. There is no relationship between the city hall and library payment and the water and sewer fund.

Troutt further states we are charging the water and sewer fund an exorbitant rent. We have never charged a rental to the water and sewer fund.

The facts are the general fund is actually contributing to the water and sewer operation by not covering all of the expenses it incurs from the department.

The water and sewer billing department budget of $57,000.00 is paid from the general fund. The water and sewer operation at the DPW of $214,013.00 is paid from the general fund, fringe benefits for those employees of another $245,000.00 for a total general fund payment of $516,013.00, in addition to utilities, payroll services, attorneys fees, etc., but we are only charging the water and sewer fund $325,735.00, again we are picking up the cost.

At the present time we are unable to pay the City of Detroit for water and sewage disposal.

After all of the expertise provided to the council some of the members are not willing to live up to their responsibility and increase the rate as required by the city charter.

It is unfair to say that all of the city council feels this way, since the record indicates this is not true.

We have stopped the purchase of vehicles from the water and sewer fund and are unable to meet our present obligations.

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, Do you want to pay for the water used in your home or are you willing to pay for your home plus part of the water used by industry?

If we continue as we are, tax dollars will have to be increased to bail the water and sewer department out of it's present dilemma. As stated in the beginning, how can we overcome a 268 percent increase, without increasing the rate?

As Mayor of Romulus, I am not interested in playing political games, but rather giving the citizens the facts. I have confidence- Romulus Citizens are intelligent enough to give this community good common sense administration.

I am available to discuss this problem with any citizen or group of citizens who honestly seek to help the city and promote good sound management. If you have suggestions please feel free to stop in and discuss them.

May I take this opportunity to thank the Romulus Roman Staff for being willing to maintain an unbiased position and give our community a democratic press.

Compulsive overeater? Seek help from OA

Are you a compulsive eater? Do you eat constantly and indiscriminately? Would you like to stop gorging yourself? Quit your habit of everlasting snacking?

Overeaters Anonymous (OA) may be the answer for you!

What is Overeaters Anonymous? It is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from compulsive overeating.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop overeating. There are no dues or fees for OA membership; they are self-supporting through their own contributions.

OA is not allied with any sect, denomination, politics, organization or institution; does not wish to engage in any controversy; neither endorses nor opposes any cause.

The primary purpose is to abstain from compulsive overeating and help other overeaters to achieve abstinence.

There are three locally based

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop overeating chapters of OA to serve those in the area. The Belleville group holds its weekly meetings on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 417 Charles Street. Information on the sessions may be obtained by calling 697-7445 or 487-9339.

The Romulus chapter of OA, which has been meeting for eight months, holds its programs at 1 p.m. each Tuesday at the Romulus Department of Recreation Building, 36515 Bibbins Street. For further information, call 941-2921.

Residents in and around Willis might like to attend the meetings held by OA each Tuesday morning at 9:15 a.m. at the Willis Methodist Church on Meridian Street. Information on the 1-year-old organization may be found by calling 461-6937.

OA meetings are based on the Twelve Traditions:

1. Our common welfare should come first; personal recovery depends upon OA unity.
2. For our group purpose there is but one ultimate authority — a loving God as He may express Himself in our group conscience. Our leaders are but trusted servants; they do not govern.
3. The only requirement for OA membership is a desire to stop eating compulsively.
4. Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or OA as a whole.
5. Each group has but one primary purpose — to carry its message to the compulsive overeater who still suffers.
6. An OA group ought never endorse, finance or lend the OA name to any related facility or outside enterprise, lest problems of money, property and prestige divert us from our primary purpose.

7. Every OA group ought to be fully self-supporting, declining outside contributions.

8. Overeaters Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers.

9. OA, as such, ought never be organized; but we may create service boards or committees directly responsible to those they serve.

10. Overeaters Anonymous has no opinion on outside issues; hence the OA name ought never be drawn into public controversy.

11. Our public relations policy is based on attraction rather than promotion; we need always maintain personal anonymity at the level of press, radio, films, television and other public media of communication.

12. Anonymity is the spiritual foundation of all these traditions, ever reminding us to place principles before personalities.

Since the birth of Overeaters Anonymous in January, 1960, many people — overeaters and non-overeaters alike — have sought answers to questions about OA and its remarkable program of recovery.

There are also 12 steps which OA suggests as a program of recovery:

1. We admitted we were powerless over food — that our lives had become unmanageable.

2. Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.

3. Made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understood Him.

4. Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

5. Admitted to God, to ourselves and to another human beings the exact nature of our wrongs.

6. Were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.

7. Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings.

8. Made a list of all persons we had harmed and became willing to make amends to them all.

9. Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others.

10. Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong, promptly admitted it.

11. Sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God, as we understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the power to carry that out.

12. Having had a spiritual awakening as the result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to compulsive overeaters and to practice these principles in all our affairs.

Garden Clubs share plant party

Ferns, baby's tears, spider plants, grape ivy — you name it (in the terms of a lay person) — and it was there at the joint meeting of Belleville's two garden clubs, the Huron Valley and the Van Buren groups. Held at the home of Mrs. Laurence Zager of East Huron River Drive (left), the January get-together was hosted by the Huron Valley

House plants in spotlight at joint garden club meet

A house plant party was on the agenda for the Jan. 3 meeting of the Huron Valley Garden Club which was held at the home of Mrs. Laurence Zager on East Huron River Drive, Belleville. The group had as special guests members of the Van Buren Garden Club of Belleville.

Mrs. Mary Wyman from the Cracked Pot Garden Shop in Dearborn was the afternoon speaker. Each indoor plant, she said, has special needs and she outlined a 3-point program of care to be followed involving light, water and food.

She exhibited a wide variety of plants, telling of their characteristics and the procedures recommended for their care.

The business portion of the meeting was led by Mrs. D. W. Blend, president, who announced a horticultural workshop set for March 4 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dearborn. Mrs. James Kause is chairing the event.

Arrangements for the first meeting of the year were made by the civic committee which included Mrs. Zager, Mrs. Kause and Mrs. Richard Donahay. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. Fred Flavell.

Quotes worth quoting . . .

"The ungenerous soul has forgotten that everything he has came to him from God and that, acting as a trustee instead of an owner, he is one day to render an account of his stewardship."

Fulton J. Sheen said it

Home freezer can combat inflation

With grocery prices high and still rising, many homemakers in Belleville, New Boston, Romulus, Huron, Van Buren and Sumpter, are becoming convinced that an inventory of home-frozen foods is probably their best hedge against inflation.

How much you really can save in dollars, as well as in time and energy, depends on how effectively you use your freezer, says Pauline Church, home service advisor for the Republic Molding Corp. of Chicago.

Effective usage, according to her definition, involves all these factors:

1. Taking advantage of special prices on foods your family enjoys when such foods are in good supply.
2. Freezing only fresh foods of high quality.
3. Selecting suitable varieties of fruits and vegetables at their peak of ripeness.
4. Preparing and packaging foods promptly and properly.
5. Loading the freezer correctly for best operating efficiency.

6. Keeping contents organized for easy selection and inventory control.

7. Rotating freezer contents, using older packages first and, ideally, replacing all foods within a year's time.

"Even if some of the recommended procedures for preparing and packaging foods seem troublesome, don't be tempted to take shortcuts," Ms. Church cautioned. "Their purpose is to prevent loss of quality in frozen foods and thus protect your investment. So read and follow instructions carefully."

Among the factors known to cause loss of quality are enzymes and air, working separately or in tandem to bring about changes in color, flavor and texture. Another is evaporation of moisture, which results in the condition known as freezer burn.

Unless containers and wrapping materials are moisture-vapor resistant and specifically designed to withstand the rigors of low temperature storage, they won't provide adequate protection.

Don Bieszke leaves

Letter carrier retires — banquet held in his honor

Those residents who comprise the Belleville Post Office's city route six may have noticed that their regular letter carrier, Don Bieszke, has been missing for the past few weeks. They may have just figured he was taking a long vacation. That could be said to be true except that it's a permanent vacation...he has retired.

Last Wednesday evening Don was the guest of honor at a sit down dinner party marking his 21 years and nine months service with the U.S. Postal Service as well as his time with the U.S. Army during World War II.

Held at Leright's Banquet Room in Wayne, the farewell party was under the direction of postal clerk Scotty Grishaber and included some 52 co-workers, relatives and friends. Also present were two other retirees who turned over their mail routes during the past four years - Chet Thurston and his wife, Betty, and Jerome Fay and his wife, Sally.

Other special guests who were seated at the head table with the honoree and his wife, Mary, were their son and daughter-in-law, Bob and Betty Kross of Livonia, and close friends, Stan and Jo Ladewich of Wayne.

Ray Van Buhler took on the duties of emceeing the program which included a "roast" of the principal subject. Ray led off the remarks with Dale Phillips, Bert Smith, Chet Thurston, Harry Wilsey and Ray O'Neil adding their comments.

Postmaster O'Neil then took over and presented Don with a gift certificate from the group and his wife with a floral hurricane centerpiece.

Having been appointed a substitute city carrier on Dec. 3, 1959, Don subsequently was assigned permanently to city route six on Sept. 29, 1963. He and his wife plan to travel now that they're enjoying their leisure years. Currently they expect to visit Arizona to check out the possibility of a future cold-months home there. They plan to reside at their home in Belleville the remainder of the year.

Darnell's daughter is Amber Kathleen

A new little tax deduction at the Goddard Road home of Jim and Kathy Darnell in Romulus is the 7 pound - 12 ounce daughter they welcomed at 5:45 p.m. on Dec. 29.

Making her debut at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, the new addition was named Amber Kathleen. She is the little sister of Aaron James, 5½-years-old, and Ryan John, 14-months old.

Their mother, the former Kathy Bruder, is the daughter of Albert and Shirley Stubb of Elwell Road, Belleville. Amber is their seventh grandchild and their second granddaughter, 15 years.

The baby's paternal grandparents are James Dinnell and Janet Darnell, both of Romulus.

Leftover rice a helpmate

Leftover rice that has been cooked can be used in most combination dishes that call for cooked rice. To reheat, steam rice in a colander or sieve over boiling water. Or add two tablespoons of water for each cup of cooked rice and reheat in a covered pan over low heat or in the oven. While rice is heating, occasionally stir it gently with a fork.

For a change, cook rice in a flavorful liquid instead of water. Try chicken or beef broth, fruit juice or equal parts of tomato juice and water. Add ¼ to 1 teaspoon of curry powder, cumin, thyme, turmeric or mace to each cup of water. With dried parsley flakes, use one tablespoon and with saffron, use only one-third teaspoon.

That taste sensation?

It's as plain as the nose on your face

Without it, your food would be tasteless, you'd have less reason to call anyone a stinker, you wouldn't need prescription sprays to clear up things like sinusitis and nasal congestion and there'd be a terrible gap between your eyes and mouth. It's your nose — and there are dozens of other reasons for concluding that it's not to be sneezed at. Biologically and historically, it's one of nature's most noteworthy creations.

Few people realize just how sensitive their noses are. When you sniff appreciatively at the perfume of a girl you pass on main street, your human nostrils are registering a quantity of fragrance so tiny that the most delicately calibrated machine in existence can't detect or record it!

Less fortunately for you, your nose can also catch a cubic inch of ethyl mercaptan (smells like a combination of cabbage, garlic, onions and sewer gas) even when it's been diffused through an area the size of a football field.

Yet, according to researchers, if you combine two strong odors of the right type, you won't smell a thing! Scientists have found certain "odor opposites" — lemon and frying fish, oil of wintergreen and stale tobacco, limburger cheese and boiled vinegar — which cancel each other out.

Though they credit their noses for the "come and get it" lure of a sizzling steak or a freshly baked pie, most people don't know that they taste their food and drink primarily by smelling it. Your tongue distinguishes only four broad flavor categories: sweet, sour, salty, bitter; it's your nose that tells you of the thousands of gradations and blends.

With every mouthful you take, fumes of odor rise through the back of your mouth and up your nose to tickle the olfactory nerve and convince you that the steak is a little too "done", the peach pie a shade too tart, the bourbon aged to perfection. Plug up those gifted nostrils and shut your eyes tightly and ham will be indistinguishable from lamb, vintage claret from weak vinegar, apple from onion!

Very often the nostrils may get clogged because of factors your body can't readily control such as nasal congestion, sinusitis or allergies like hay fever. In a recent scientific study conducted at the University of Colorado Medical Center, 36 out of 40 people suffering from nasal congestion experienced prompt onset of relief after using oxymetazoline drops or spray. One dose of the drug provides relief for more than eight hours in 47 percent of the cases.

The sense of smell is monitored by a deceptively simple apparatus. Two flat postage-stamp-sized membranes, one in the upper part of each nostril, comprise your olfactory organ. When an odor reaches the tiny hairs of these membranes, it sends electrical impulses racing to your brain which translates these signals into the appropriate reaction: "ah", "ugh" or something in between. As far as science now knows, there is no limit to the number and range of smells that this ingenious apparatus can pick up and identify.

Have you heard that some sensitive noses can smell "fear"? Odor experts say it's true and that the really discerning set of nostrils can even distinguish between several different kinds of fright!

No less amazing is the power of these "receivable" odors to jog our memories, influence our buying patterns and perform other psychological sleight-of-hand. A British psychologist uncorked a bottle of citronella and the subject of his experiment promptly "heard" mosquitoes in the room.

Another participant in the same experiment sniffed cassia oil and got a vivid mental picture of his childhood doctor. Faced with a choice between stockings which had been very lightly scented and hosiery left unperfumed, women in a recent market research survey were 3-to-1 in their preference for the scented hose. Asked the reasons for their choice, they mentioned "color," "texture" and "sheen" — not one noticed the dollar-coaxing scent.

But the magic wrought by and on modern nostrils pales beside the fears of which our primitive ancestors thought THEIR noses capable.

Superstition has literally led man by the nose ever since he noticed the connection between respiration and a ripe old age. He soon came to identify his soul with his breath and took some ingenious precautions to keep from losing either. The nose rings worn by savages are actually amulets to prevent the soul from leaving the body via the nostrils and to discourage evil spirits from entering through the same doors. You laugh? Our habit of saying "God bless you" when someone sneezes derives from the same primitive fear!

Even those of us who pride ourselves on not being superstitious talk about noses at great length. Who hasn't offered to "count noses" at a meeting or spoken of a punctual person as being "on the nose"? The latter expression, in case you've wondered, came into being in the radio studios of the nation where the producer would signal the performers by putting his finger on his nose when the program was running to schedule time.

Though it's possible to run on and on about noses, suffice it to say that your nose is a remarkable instrument that should be treated with respect and tender, loving care. Pamper it with perfume and reward it with aromatic foods and beverages. Your amazing nose is worth paying through!

Wedding bells will ring in February

Two Eastern Michigan Students, Colleen Teresa Byrnes and Steven L. Johnson, both of Belleville, are engaged and making plans for their winter wedding.

Their daughter's approaching marriage is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Terry Byrnes of 14379 Elwell Rd., Belleville.

A 1975 graduate of Belleville High School, the bride-elect is in her freshman year at EMU. She is employed at the Briarwood Hilton Inn of Ann Arbor.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Johnson of 11044 Borgman, Belleville, graduated from Belleville High School in 1973 and is a junior majoring in marketing at EMU. He is manager of Sun and Snow Sports in Belleville.

The young couple have set a Feb. 4 altar date.

Trouble with spider plants? Overwatering could be cause

Houseplant lovers often come to the point of "chucking them all out" about this time of year when greenery seems to fade and those once lush vines start to droop before your eyes.

Don't despair, even the experts lose a few plants. Everyone wasn't blessed with the proverbial green thumb; it takes time, patience and a lot of perseverance to stick with the TLC (tender loving care) that some plants require.

Spider plants, which seem to be popular because of their cascading sprouts which fill a vacant corner or bare wall, have given some people trouble. They ask what causes the leaf tips to turn brown and crisp.

Plant experts say that the most common problem is 2-fold — overwatering and tap water. All those chemicals and fluorides used to "purify" our water may be good for us but most house plants aren't too wild about it. Half the problem can be eliminated by either collecting rain water or finding a natural spring. In the winter, collect snow and let it warm to room temperature. If you aren't able to do so then tap water is better than no water at all.

In order to rid the water of many of the chemicals, fill your water containers with the hottest tap water and let set overnight before watering your plants. During the night a lot of the fluorides will evaporate and even more will settle to the bottom. Then when it's time to water, be sure not to shake the water bottle or can and don't use the last inch or so of water left in the bottom.

Then — don't go overboard watering. That is one of the most common problems among plant lover. The spider plant (chlorophytum comosum) won't tolerate too much water for any length of time because it has succulent roots which can store water for long periods of time.

If you keep watering after the roots are full, the water has no place to go and will stagnate. That's when root rot sets in and almost always means the demise of the plant.

Another bit of advice on watering: always make sure you water enough so that it drains through the bottom of your pot. If you don't have a drainage hole in your container, get one that does.

Know your plants, know how wet or dry the soil should feel and then keep them that way. Plants will be healthier and you will be happier.

One reason that leaf tips turn brown could be that your plant is sitting in a direct draft, either hot or cold. Or it might have been bruised. Bumping up against the ends or having it hanging in such a place that it gets slammed against the wall every time someone walks past could be another cause.

Remember, plants need to be treated gently.

New job? Read this

Before you take a new job with a company that may transfer you later on, Employee Transfer Corporation, Chicago, suggest you ask these questions:

1. How much time will I get to hunt for a new house?
2. Will the company pay for my house-hunting expenses and for my wife if I want to bring her along?
3. Will the company pay for moving my household goods?
4. Who pays for packing and unpacking?
5. Do I get a mileage or shipping allowance for my car when I move?
6. Will the company pay for travel, food, and lodging when I move my family?
7. If I have to live in temporary quarters, will the company pay and for how long?
8. Will the company arrange to buy my house from me and give me the equity I need to buy a new one, and will it help me find a new home?

"If a company wants the employee to be happy and productive, it will arrange to take most of these worries off his hands," Employee Transfer Corporation spokesmen said.

Registrations taken for legal aid class

Registrations are being taken for the personal assessment inventory required to enter the Legal Assistant Diploma Program, conducted by Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education beginning in late January.

The Diploma Program for Legal Assistants is the only paralegal program in Michigan approved by the American Bar Association.

Applicants for the program must register and pay a $10 fee in advance of the inventory, which will be conducted from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Jan. 10, in Gold Rooms B-C of the Oakland Center Building on campus in Rochester. Call the Continuing Education office at 377-3120, to register for the inventory or to obtain a brochure detailing the Legal Assistant Program.

The 10-course program begins the week of Jan. 24 at the Birmingham Center for Continuing Education, 746 Purdy at Frank, and the week of Jan. 31 on campus in Rochester.

A hot idea

People during the Middle Ages had a good way to beat the energy shortage. They piled as many as possible in the same bed to keep warm at night.

Biggest bed of all time is the great Bed of Ware in the Tudor-Elizabethan period which held 24 people, according to the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago.

Send us your bridal information

Want to share that "special day" with those who are unable to be present in person for your wedding ceremony? We'll write the details of your wedding in story form for you — and at no charge — if you'll simply follow a few guidelines.

The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman offer bridal questionnaires for you to fill out as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all." These forms include all the pertinent questions involved with your marriage or betrothal.

Forms may be picked up at our office, 116 Fourth St., Belleville (we're in the old Township Hall, side entrance) anytime during the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

We will also mail forms if a telephone request is made. Call Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, at 697-9191.

Mothers Club plays host at annual school party

The Mothers Club of St. Anthony's School sponsored its annual holiday party for all children attending the school, grades one through eight, from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Dec. 21.

Mary Moser and Pauline Womac were in charge of gifts and entertainment while Joyce Gleason handled the refreshments detail.

The program began with the students decorating Christmas trees with the ornaments they had made in their art classes. A Walt Disney movie, "Johnny Shiloh," and cartoon shorts were next on the agenda.

For lunch the group was treated to 300 hamburgers from McDonald's on Rawsonville Road, generously donated by the manager Mr. Gamble. Cookies and potato chips from the mothers of the parish also were served.

From noon to 1:30 p.m. each class enjoyed a visit from the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce's Santa Claus who passed out candy and gifts to each student and teacher.

Talking could help

For a woman who has had a mastectomy — breast surgery — sometimes just talking to someone can help her cope with the problems she may be facing.

The Michigan Cancer Foundations (MCF) Patient and Family Care Service will be offering weekly discussion groups for women who have had breast surgery.

During these sessions women can talk about and share the feelings and problems they are encountering during the recovery from and adjustment to a mastectomy and a cancer experience.

The discussion groups will begin next week. Two sessions are available, with one group meeting on Monday afternoons and the other group on Tuesday evenings.

Participants in each group will meet once a week for 10 weeks at the MCF headquarters, 110 E. Warren, Detroit.

The MCF social work and nursing staff also is planning a mastectomy discussion group for husbands or partners of women who have had breast surgery.

"We know that men face problems after their partners' surgeries, too," said Kathy Lipiec, MCF social worker. "They have an emotional adjustment to make and quite often they don't know what to do, or how to respond.

"We want to give them a chance to talk about their fears and feelings with other men who are facing many of the same problems," she said.

For more information, or to register for the mastectomy discussion groups, call the MCF's Patients and Family Care Service at 833-0710, ext. 301.

For a simple meal

Luscious from "scratch" Corn Griddle Cakes dress up a simple dinner menu for an easy Sunday evening meal. Accompanied by canned luncheon meat and topped with

Pancakes can go to dinner

Provide a most likely answer to one of those Sunday evening what-to-eat dilemmas. Take down that bottle of Log Cabin syrup from your kitchen cupboard shelf.

If you like pancakes, and who doesn't, discover the exciting possibilities as you build a meal around them. Simply dress-up this old favorite for hearty family fare that's quick, easy to prepare and so-o good!

It's simple to plan around these luscious Corn Griddle Cakes. Start from "scratch," adding freshly cooked or canned corn to the mixture of basic ingredients. Open up a can of luncheon meat for just the right flavor contrast. Pour on lots of Log Cabin syrup for that delicious, deep-down flavor goodness. Complete the menu with a refreshment citrus salad — that's all there is to it!

Corn Griddle Cakes

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
1 can (8 oz.) whole kernel corn
2 tablespoons shortening, melted
Butter
Maple-blended syrup

Or use 1 cup cooked corn cut from the cob.

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, sugar, and pepper. Combine egg, milk, and corn; add to flour mixture with shortening, mixing just until flour is dampened. Bake on hot greased griddle. Serve with butter and syrup. Makes 12 to 15 griddle cakes.

A Widow's Stages of Grief

The newly "widowed" each react differently to the death of a mate, to widowhood, to the possibility of an insecure or lonely future. The following observations may help, if only to indicate that certain feelings are not uncommon and will pass.

The widow progresses through several emotional stages during mourning and after the initial shock. If you and she recognize these as stages through which a widow may pass, it may enable friends and relatives to help the widow work through her grieving more fully and effectively.

Sorrow is a basic emotional stage of mourning and very common, sometimes accompanied by expressions of self-pity and/or guilt. Another is anger and resentment against a "cruel world" or an "unkind" God who has taken one's mate prematurely. Fears of the unknown future "without him" as companion and breadwinner, husband and father, prime decision-maker and head of the house are not unusual to a new widow.

Anxiety-Uncertainty: "Who will provide for the family? How will I manage my finances alone?" As the widow's confidence in her own abilities is strengthened, her re-entry into the world of reality may be more smoothly achieved. If you and the widow recognize these stages as natural and as fairly common to all persons in mourning, the social adjustments will come quicker and easier for her.

We welcome your questions—in private or publicly, through this column.

Florida trip over for Hafts

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. George Haft of Church Street returned home Jan. 4 after spending a 2-week vacation in Florida. They spent some time with Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Ames at Sebring, visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart at De Land and also spent some time at Disney World. Their granddaughter and a girl friend accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hoyt of Belle Vista Boulevard are announcing the birth of their first child, a baby boy, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, on Dec. 24, weight 6 lbs., 11½ ozs. He has been named Mathew David. The baby's father is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road.

Lois Libbos of Liberty Street and a friend, Bonnie Mills of Ypsilanti, returned home Jan. 2 after spending a week in Tucson, Ariz. with the former's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Libbos.

Mr. and Mrs. Rual Pond and friend from Detroit were New Year's Day guests of the former's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Pond of Borgman Street.

Mrs. Dorothy De Wese of Bowling Green, Ohio was a guest for several days last week of her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Boldt of Roland Street.

Dinner guests at the Norman Miller home on Second Street on Tuesday of last week were their granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Eichfeld from Norfolk, Va. Another granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Terry McGovern of Essexville, were also recent guests.

After having spent the past three weeks with a sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Quinley of Sumpter Road, and other relatives, Mrs. Eilene Lindemann left Friday for her home at Highland Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smith of Borgman Street were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Troye Lambert of Harrison on Tuesday of last week. Mrs. Lambert, who has been quite ill, is reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Luper of Karr Road returned home Wednesday from Beulah where they had been guests of the former's niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kuerth.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nicholson of Rawsonville Road returned home Jan. 2 from Jacksonville, Fla. where they had spent the holidays with their daughters, Deborah and Carolyn, and Mrs. Nicholson's mother, Mrs. Dewey Ballard.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street were guests of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Mann of Wayne, on New Year's Eve and Day. They enjoyed dinner together at the Bavarian Inn in Frankenmuth on New Year's Eve.

Funeral services for a one time Martz Road resident, Stanley T. Waters, son of the late John and Carrie Waters, were held at the Moore Funeral Home in Ypsilanti on Jan. 5. Burial was in Alban Cemetery.

Rice, so-o easy

Rice is easy to cook. You can boil, steam, oven-cook or fry it. Keep in mind that most kinds of rice swell during cooking. One cup of uncooked white, parboiled or brown rice yields three cups or more; 1 cup of precooked rice yields from 1 cup slightly more than two cups.

To keep as many nutrients as possible in cooked rice, follow these rules: do not wash rice before cooking (packaged rice is already clean), use only the amount of water that rice will absorb during cooking; do not rinse rice after cooking.

Highlight program year

State transportation services 'shine'

Entry into the railroad business, success in obtaining federal funds for mass transit in southeast Michigan and expansion of passenger transportation services highlighted Michigan's 1976 public transportation program, according to the State Highway Commission.

Through federal and state rail funding programs, approximately 900 miles of Michigan's railroad service, which otherwise would have been terminated, was preserved when operating contracts were signed April 1, 1976.

The commission allocated $1.8 million for acquisition of 153 miles of the former Ann Arbor Railroad. Its rolling stock was purchased, an agreement with Wisconsin was made to jointly finance continued operation of the cross-lake Michigan car ferry, and track rehabilitation was begun.

The state's subsidy program includes operating contracts with Conrail, Detroit and Mackinaw Railway Co., Hillsdale County Railway Co., Michigan Northern Railway Co. and the Straits Car Ferry Service Corp. to provide rail service on the subsidized lines.

Future rail freight programs include:

—Development of short line regional railroads for operations responsive to local interests.

—Financial assistance to retain service on all essential light density lines that may otherwise be subject to abandonment.

—Development of the Ann Arbor Railroad as a competitive line haul operation.

—Restructure and improvement of cross-lake ferry services.

—Acquisition of rail rights-of-way on vital rail lines where acquisition is necessary for potential future operations and/or potential public use.

—Acquisition or lease of rolling stock vital to state agriculture and other industry.

—Continued funding for extensive track repair and equipment modernization.

The department participated in successful efforts to obtain a $600 million grant from the federal Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA) for rapid transit in the Detroit area.

Three years of preliminary effort in planning and design paid off in December when the state received federal approval and funds for the Detroit people-mover. The proposed 2.3-mile, mostly elevated, loop system will have 11 stations in the commercial heart of Michigan's leading city and has been designed to be the major means of downtown circulation.

Eight additional intercity bus services were sponsored by the state in 1976, bringing state-initiated programs to 10. They operated a total of 1,285,940 miles and carried 91,200 passengers.

The Department expanded its intercity bus load program, providing 21 new buses to 13 privately-owned intercity carriers in 1976. Developed in 1975, this unique program makes funding available for lease-purchase agreements between the state and the carriers.

A new program was launched in 1976 to incorporate an intermodal concept into Michigan's public transportation system. A grant to the City of Kalamazoo is financing the state's first intermodal terminal which, when completed, will have facilities for Amtrak passenger trains, intercity buses, transit buses and taxi-limousine services. The historical Michigan Central railroad depot, completed in 1887, is being restored for that purpose.

New cooperative efforts between intercity bus and rail transportation in Michigan started in 1976. "Bustrak," a state-supported intercity bus service between Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, connects directly at Kalamazoo with Amtrak trains.

Residents put their weight behind Special Olympics

Residents in most cities across the state will be asked to step on the scales to "put their weight behind the Winter Special Olympics" this Saturday.

Olympics area directors, volunteers and special athletes with weight scales will be in business districts, shopping centers and other community locations asking people to donate a penny per pound of their weight, according to Allen Gates.

director of Michigan Special Olympics at Central Michigan University (CMU).

The funds raised from the "Weigh to Help Them Ski" project will help defray costs of transporting the 750 athletes and their chaperones expected to participate in the state's first Winter Special Olympics Feb. 23-25.

Goal for the weigh-in is 5 million

Thirty-three Dial-A-Ride (DART) systems were operating in the state in 1976. Each DART system starts with 100 percent capital and operating costs paid by the state, less a $1,000 local contribution. After the first year, DART are eligible for operating funds under a formula based on population and vehicle miles, but also require local support to supplement fares.

The department also obtained federal UMTA funds to buy 52 vehicles to transport elderly and handicapped persons in areas without public transportation. The state's own Handicapped Transportation Program provided 1-year operating grants to provide services for the elderly and handicapped in 19 communities.

Booklets answers question

Several free publications are available to answer nearly every question a Western Wayne County taxpayer may have, according to a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Some of the more popular IRS publications cover moving expenses, sick pay, interest expense, contributions, tax benefits for older Americans, medical deductions and earned income credit.

Free IRS publications can be obtained by filling out handy order blanks in the tax packages mailed by the federal agency or from the local IRS office.

WW II memories depicted in movie

The Beverly Road Church of God in Christ will be presenting a new full-length color film by World Wide Pictures, "CORRIE: Behind the Scenes with The Hiding Place", Jan. 29.

The film will be shown at 6 p.m. at the church, located at 35143 Beverly Road, Romulus.

"The Hiding Place" is a true story, filmed in Holland and other European locations, based on the experiences of Corrie ten Boom, who with her father, sister and brother, provide refuge for countless Jewish families during the war.

A secret room was constructed in her family's home as a hiding place for use during Gestapo raids in World War II.

The ten Booms' activities eventually were discovered and the family was sent to prison and concentration camps.

According to the director of distribution for the film company, the movie was produced to give people who have seen "The Hiding Place" or read many of Miss ten Boom's best-selling books an opportunity to hear her memories about her life in Holland, her family and her lifetime of service to others.

He added that the film "offers a great lesson in the preservation of a personal faith in a very dark and trying period of world history."

He went on to say that "Corrie ten Boom, now in her 80s, has a tremendous vitality, a deep spiritual commitment and a profound love for her fellow man".

The film showing is free and open to the public, according to J. L. Whitehead Jr., pastor of the Beverly Road Church of God in Christ. He added: "We encourage families to plan to attend together for what we believe will be a memorable experience."

Swearing-in

The 27-member Wayne County Board of Commissioners started off a new 2-year term last week by taking their oath of office, administered by County Clerk James Killeen. Sworn into office were John J. Korney (front row, from left), Loretta Young and Jarrette Simons, all of Detroit; John Barr, board chairman, of Dearborn Heights; Jackie L. Currie and Rose Mary Robinson, both of Detroit; Mary E. Dumas of Livonia; Maxine Young of Detroit; Ervin A. Steiner Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms; Edward Michalski (second row, from left) and Samuel A. Turner, both of Detroit; Royce E. Smith of Belleville; William G. Suzore of Lincoln Park; George R. Killen of Detroit; Richard E. Manning of Redford; George Hart and Alex Plich, both of Dearborn; William Sullivan (back row, from left) of Wyandotte; Conrad L. Mallett and Paul Citkowski, both of Detroit; Chester Wozniak of Hamtramack; Norbert Wisniewski and Clemens E. Bykowski, both of Detroit; Edgar L. Harris of Taylor; Arthur M. Carter of Detroit; Clarence Young of Ecorse and Tom Presnell of Westland. The swearing-in took place at the board's Jan. 6 meeting.

Speed limit safety unchanged on old roads

Western Wayne County residents are well aware of the fact that the national 55-mile per hour speed limit has been credited with reducing fatality rates on modern highways. But what about those older roads?

According to Washington, D.C., based The Road Information Program (TRIP), drivers who use older roads have not reaped similar safety benefits.

"The reason is simple. The margin of safety on modern roads becomes greater at reduced speed, but safety problems on old roads haven't changed a bit," said H.W. Reece, TRIP president.

In 1974, the first year of the nationwide reduced speed limit, fatality rates on the Interstate Highway System dropped 32.6 percent. On local roads and streets, the accident death rate in the same period declined only 1.6 percent, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). Rates have remained in proportion since then, TRIP said.

One NHTSA study on the safety benefits of reduced speed limits found "the high speed highway systems experiencing large savings and the local type rural roads showing no improvements."

The American Association of State Highway Transportation Officials (AASHTO) concluded, after studying the 55-m.p.h. speed limit, that "roads with the highest design standards have the lowest accident and fatality rates."

Howard L. Anderson, associate administrator for safety at the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), pointed to the interstate system as "probably the most outstanding example of the impact of good roadway design on highway safety." He credited the system with saving 60,000 lives since 1956, when the first miles were opened.

'The margin of safety...on modern roads becomes greater at reduced speed...'

But even when complete, the proposed 42,500 mile interstate system will comprise only 2.3

percent of the total 1.8 million miles of paved roads in the nation. Of this total, TRIP said 800,000 miles have problems which can affect safe driving. Bumps, ruts, potholes, broken pavement, shoulder drop-offs, blind curves, narrow lanes, steep hills and obsolete bridges are among the most common hazards. Even portions of the interstates are wearing out. As of Sept. 30, 1976, 8,400 of the 37,869 miles open for travel needed resurfacing or other major improvements.

Anderson sees another problem in the persistent "myth" that 80 to 90 percent of all accidents are caused by driver error.

"We can rationalize that almost any accident was caused by the human factor," Anderson said, referring to situations such as equipment failure, collisions at blind intersections, and head-on crashes on narrow bridges.

"Driver error contributes to many accidents and so does the highway environment. In fact, the environment may lead the driver into error or prevent him from making the right decision," Anderson said.

He pointed out that the same drivers who use well-designed modern freeways also use older roads. Consistently, low fatality rates result on the better roads, and "the only difference is one facility is designed to accommodate many of the driver weaknesses," Anderson added.

TRIP studies of accidents on a state-by-state basis show that even if driver error accounts for most accidents, road deficiencies can be blamed for an estimated 3.5 million accidents (21.4 percent) and $40.5 billion in losses in 1975.

Giving too much credit to the 55-mile per hour speed limit may lull some drivers into thinking they can be less careful on local, low-speed roads when just the opposite is true, Reece said.

"It may also tempt some drivers to speed on 'back' roads where they think laws are not enforced," he said.

"Safety is a 3-part equation — safe driving habits, safe vehicles and safe roads," the TRIP president said. "Leave out any one of them, and you're asking for trouble."

Cawthorne tags anti-crime bills as priority

The House Republican Leader is urging action by the State Legislature in tough anti-crime bills as the top priority in 1977.

Rep. Dennis O. Cawthorne (R-Manistee) said the legislature should concentrate specifically on measures to reform parole procedures, releases on bail and juvenile justice.

"New legislation will be introduced in these subject areas, even though the last Democrat-controlled Legislature refused to enact these important proposals," he said. "Action is long overdue.

"In my judgement, enactment of these measures is essential if we are to make even a beginning in restoring public confidence in the criminal justice system and providing people with a feeling of safety in their neighborhoods."

On parole reform, Cawthorne said: "The use of so-called 'good time' to allow a prisoner to be paroled before he has served even his minimum sentence is intolerable. I will re-introduce legislation to reduce the present geometric allocation of time off for good behavior to a flat five days a month."

Cawthorne said legislation being re-introduced by Richard Fessler (R-Union Lake) also would prohibit subtracting good time from the minimum sentence imposed by the trial judge.

Another Cawthorne measure would restrict substantially the availability of bail to a person who has been convicted of a violent crime and is either awaiting sentencing or appealing his conviction.

"It is clear from our experience in Michigan that a great many crimes of violence are committed by persons who already have been convicted of similar acts and have been released either through the parole or bail systems," he commented. "The community has a right to expect protection from such individuals."

Cawthorne also renewed his demand for legislation revising Michigan's Juvenile Code.

"During the past session, this legislation languished while attention was focused on a weak bill which takes a dig-glove approach," he said. "Meanwhile we have seen crimes committed by juveniles increase both in number and seriousness."

Cawthorne's bill deals with the problem by creating a new category of "juvenile offender" to apply to minors aged 15 and older who commit acts which would be felonies, if committed by an adult. These persons could be placed in detention for up to three years by juvenile judges. The place of detention would be separate from adult offenders and other minors and a special program of treatment would be developed.

Cawthorne said the increase in juvenile offenses has persuaded him to favor keeping the jurisdictional age of juvenile courts at 17, rather than raising it to 18 as had been proposed in all juvenile code revisions introduced in the past ten.

School cafeterias' menu to take on 'Italian flavor'

School cafeteria menus will take, on an Italian flavor next week with such items as spaghetti, pizza and lasagne featured in the Van Buren, Romulus Community and Lincoln Consolidated School districts.

Van Buren's Elementary schools, which along with the junior and senior highs will have a 3-day semester break next Wednesday through next Friday, will have a menu of hamburgers on buns, french fries, fruit icy bird and milk on Monday.

The lineup Tuesday will be pizza, vegetable, fruit, cookies and milk.

In the junior high schools the menu Monday will be Italian lasagne, vegetable, hot Italian garlic bread, icy bird, fruit and milk, followed by baked meat loaf with mashed potatoes and gravy, vegetable, bread and butter, cake, fruit Jello-O and milk.

The alternate menu entrees will be Belleville burgers Monday and double burgers with cheese Tuesday, with side dishes of french fries or tator gems, dessert and milk.

In the Romulus Community schools the menu Monday will include baked beans with frank slices, baked sweet potatoes, bread, apple cup and milk, while spaghetti with meat sauce, buttered peas, bread, pear cup and milk will be on tap for Tuesday.

The bill of fare next Wednesday will be sloppy joes or hot dogs, whole kernel corn, rolls, fruit cup and milk, with whipped potatoes and meat gravy, fresh green beans, bread, peach cup and milk slated for next Thursday.

Rounding out the week will be a lineup of fishwich with tartar sauce, cabbage salad, rolls, orange fruit Jell-O and milk.

In Lincoln Consolidated's Early Elementary School, Monday the cafeteria will be serving pigs-in-the-blanket, potato chips, lettuce salad, chilled fruit and milk, with hamburger, vegetable, potatoes and gravy, chilled applesauce and milk on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the menu will be chili and crackers, fruit salad, cinnamon rolls and milk, while tacos with lettuce and tomatoes, buttered vegetable, cookies and milk, will be served next Thursday.

Capping the week will be a menu of fish on buns, tri-tators, cole slaw, ice cream and milk.

Romulus schools to count 'noses' of '76 graduates

The Romulus Community Schools will be conducting its annual "count of noses" of its 1976 graduates.

Members of the Class of 1976 — some 280 alumni — will be asked to complete a series of questions about whether they are working, are in the armed forces, continuing their education or unemployed.

The purpose of the survey is to find out what the graduates are doing and how well they feel the school programs have served their needs.

The information obtained for the survey will be used in planning better school programs.

The surveys are being conducted in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Education and the U.S. Office of Education.

The forms are being mailed to graduates, beginning today, and alumni are asked to return the completed forms by Feb. 20.

For further information, contact Cathy Ward at 941-4420.

CITY OF ROMULUS
MOTOR VEHICLE DRIVING SAFETY PROGRAM

1.00 GENERAL
1.01 The City of Romulus Motor Vehicle Driving Safety Program is designed to outline the obligations of the immediate supervisor of an operator of a vehicle for training new employees and the required follow-up procedures for all these employees. It also establishes guidelines for applying disciplinary action as appropriate.
1.02 The importance of driving a City motor vehicle safely cannot be overemphasized. While tools can be provided and certain skills developed with a minimum of training, every employee must be able to transport those skills and the necessary tools and material to the job location. Accordingly, all motorized employees, as a necessary part of their jobs, must be able to drive a motor vehicle in accordance with our City's practices and policies, as well as the laws of the State of Michigan. Although the City is responsible for properly training all employee's to operate our motor vehicles safely, it also becomes the employee's responsibility to observe all safety regulations including the operation of City motor vehicles.
2.00 TRAINING AND DRIVING SKILL REVIEWS
2.01 The employee's immediate supervisor has the responsibility to see that each individual in his group receives the approved Driving Training Course and follow-up verification checks as outlined in the City Motor Vehicles Accident Prevention Program. Those particular requirements must be satisfied before consideration may be given to further procedures as outlined in the following sections of the program.
2.02 In order to meet City policies and requirements for operating a City motor vehicle safely, the following points must be followed:
A. To be eligible to drive a City vehicle, an employee must have a valid City Certification Card. In addition, he must have a valid Michigan driver's license or permit if transferring from another state. These two items must be carried on his person when driving.

B. All new employees must be given the approved Driver Training Course before they will be permitted to drive a City vehicle.

C. All employees must be reviewed on their driving skills at the intervals recommended in the City Motor Vehicle Accident Prevention Program. All employees with less than two years of service on a job classification requiring driving a motor vehicle will be reviewed quarterly, and all employees with over two years of service on a job classification requiring driving a motor vehicle will be reviewed annually.

3.00 DRIVING RECORD REVIEW
3.01 As part of the employment procedure for employees hired into the operation of a motor vehicle jobs, a request is made to the Michigan Secretary of State Office to obtain their personal driving record.

4.00 RESTRICTION FROM DRIVING

4.01 In the event that an employee is suspended as a result of the rules and regulations, herewith established and the employee is required to drive as a condition of his employment, it will be necessary that said employee attend and receive a certificate from an approved drivers safety program prior to returning to work.

North of the border: 'Come ski with us'

Western Wayne County residents looking for a "exciting, inexpensive, exhilarating and fun" vacation that leaves them with "pleasant memories, a suntan and a feeling of fulfillment" many find what their looking for this winter season north of the border.

Tourist officials from Canada suggest a package ski tour to the nation's western area on the mountain ranges of British Columbia and Alberta.

Favorite ski areas in the two provinces include Silver Star, Big White and Apex Alpine in the sunny Okanagan, a little further north is the giant Tod Mountain complex, to the east and into the Rockies are Kimberley, Panorama Mountain, Fernie's Snow Valley and the Radium Bugaboo Helicopter combination, while in the gold-rush famous Cariboo, the 108 Ranch offers cross-country terrain and trails.

Five days and nights at the 108 Ranch start at just $81 each, double, including transfers from Williams Lake Airport to the Ranch, unlimited use of the 40-mile network of groomed cross-country trails, hotel tax and Ski Bird pin, an Office of Tourism said.

For the downhill buffs, five days and five nights of accommodation, transfers, lift tickets, hotel tax and Ski Bird pin can be as low as $111 each sharing double at Apex Alpine. Skiers sleep in downtown Pentiction at the Pentiction Inn and are transferred daily to the skil hill 22 miles to the west. Apex offers a variety of runs for every type of skier with a vertical drop of 1,600 feet from the top elevation of 7,200 feet, ensuring good, dry snow and a long winter season, the spokesman said.

Variety also is offered in the East Kootenay, with Ski Bird vacations at Snow Valley, just three miles from the old mining town of Fernie. The 2,100 vertical feet of skiing in the Lizard Range of the Rocky Mountains has been said to provide the best deep powder snow in the country. Fernie also has groomed runs, smooth as glass to delight the novice skier.

At Kimberley, excellent skiing with a mile-long night-skiing run and a 3,600-foot triple chair, as well as double chair and beginner lift, are available, and the famous Winterfest sets Kimberley rocking the second week in February with beer gardens, competitions, the World Snow Kite Championships and many more events, the spokesman said.

Travel

Sunny Okanagan winter holidays are tied up in packages for skiers at Silver Star near Vernon, and Big White near Kelowna. Both areas feature family skiing with runs for every calibre of skier, good facilities on the hill and a wide choice of accommodations in the cities.

Tod Mountain, northeast of Kamloops in British Columbia's central interior, features the second largest vertical drop in western Canada, and runs to suit anyone.

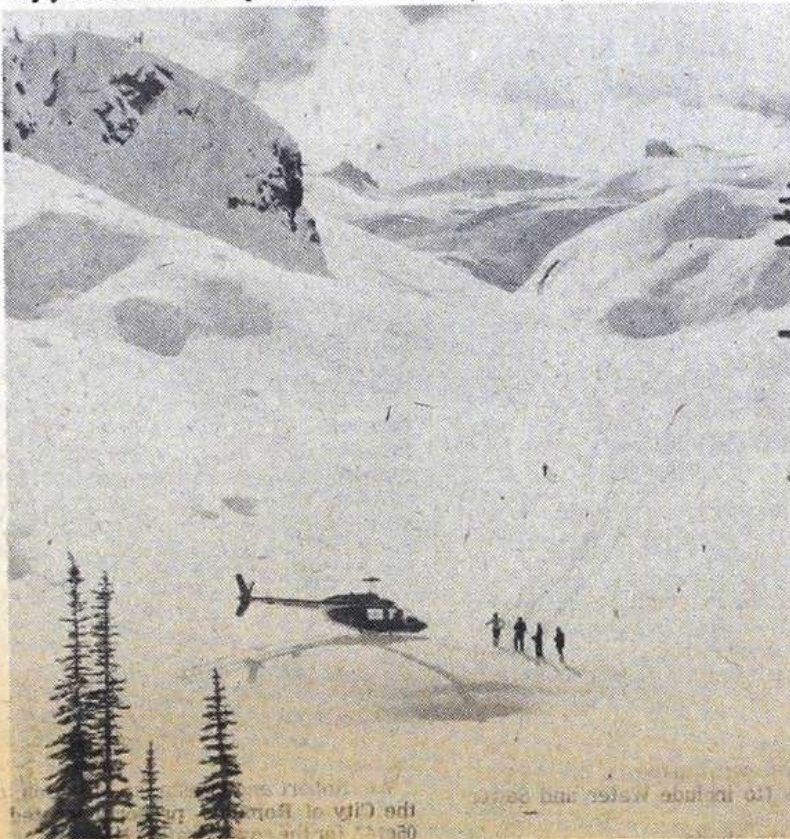

Last are the two packages to hot springs resorts, Pamorama Mountain and Fairmont Hot Springs, and Radium Hot Springs combined with helicopter-skiing in the world-famed Bugaboos. Here you can ski on top of the world, in the untouched deep powder snow on glaciers in the 6,000 to 10,000-foot elevation. Full qualified guides accompany each group, with the helicopter leaving directly from Radium, where guests enjoy the Radium Hot Springs Hotel.

Either ski to your heart's content on the glaciers (up to 70,000 feet of helicopter skiing is included in the 5-day and 5-night package or you can ski on the 3,100 vertical feet of lift-serviced Panorama Mountain.

At Fairmont, your package offers deluxe accommodation in the Fairmont Hot Springs Lodge, with skiing two miles away on the 1,100 foot Fairmont hill, or a little further away, the chairlift, T-bar and platter-lift of Panorama. The Eagle's Nest Flying School will even teach you the graceful art of hang-gliding at Fairmont, once of the most popular of the many hills used by kite flyers.

The East Kootenay areas, like many other places where skiers gather, have many night spots for added attraction, after a day of good skiing. The hills are close enough that you can stay at one and spend a day at another, and rarely will you wait in a lift line for more than a couple of minutes, the spokesman said.

Further information on package tours to the Canada West ski areas is available from the Canadian Government Office of Tourism, 150 Kent, Ottawa, Canada K1A0H6.

Helicopters range beyond the lift-serviced ski runs of Whistler Mountain to the remote interior glaciers in British Columbia.

High school musicians set for annual co-op concert

Musicians from Airport, Huron, Carlson, Flat Rock, Grosse Ile, Gibraltar and the Woodhaven High schools will be strutting up a tune at 3 p.m. Sunday when the Co-op Honors Band presents its fourth annual concert at Flat Rock High School. Conductor for this year's concert will be Jerry H. Bilik, well-known composer and arranger responsible for almost all of the arrangements for the University of Michigan Marching Band since 1953.

Bilik also served as the arranger for the U.S. Military Academy Band at West Point, N.Y., from 1955 to 1958, and composed and arranged for television musical shows as well as several serious works for symphonic bands. Involved in preparing the students for the once a year concert are high school band directors Floyd Mathews of Airport, Scott Ludwig of Huron, Joe Palazzola of Grosse Ile, Don McCorkle of Gibraltar Carlson, Lowell Schaller of Flat Rock and Charles Gross of Woodhaven. Flat Rock High School is located at 28639 Division, Flat Rock.

Squadron sets boat classes

The Ann Arbor Power Squadron will offer a free course in boating safety and small boat handling beginning at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The classes will be held in Room C117 of Pioneer High School in Ann Arbor. The course is open to both boys and girls 12 years of age and older. Ownership of a boat is not a requirement, and class registration will be held at 7:30 p.m.

The course will last for 12 weeks for two hours per week, meeting at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday. There will be a final examination at the conclusion of the class.

Tax preparers face strict federal rules

Persons who prepare federal income tax returns for compensation now are faced with stricter rules than in the past, a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service this week said.

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1976, income tax preparers are subject to $25 fines for failure to furnish completed copies of returns or claims for refund to their clients; failure to sign the returns or claims in the space provided; and failure to enter their identifying number along with their signature on each return or claim prepared.

In addition, tax preparers now are required to maintain copies of each return or claim for refund prepared for pay for a period of three years, or, failing that, they must maintain a list containing the name and identifying number of each taxpayer served. Each failure to do so will subject the tax preparer or his or her firm to a $50 fine, up to a maximum fine of $25,000 in any given tax year, according to the IRS spokesman.

While the IRS has no authority to set rules determining who may or may not prepare returns for pay, it cautions taxpayers whose help to choose their tax return preparer as carefully as they would a family doctor or attorney, since the taxpayer is ultimately responsible for the correctness of the return regardless of who prepares it, the spokesman added.

Rarest deer in the world is Fea's muntjac (Muntiacus fea), which is only known from 2 specimens collected on the borders of Tenasserim (in Burma) and Thailand.

Glenn cagers edge North

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Sports

Westland John Glenn played over its worst shooting performance of the season to jar North Farmington 52-50 and keep sole possession of first place in the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball league.

Shooting a dismal 34 percent for the evening, the Rockets handed the previously undefeated Raiders their first setback in the league Friday. "Though I'm pleased with winning this game," Coach Gordie Davis said, "I'm not pleased at the way we played. In fact, neither team played well."

Glenn, which has been averaging 50 percent accuracy from the field, needed a second half rally to shake the pesky visitors who led after the first period 14-10, then lost the next three periods.

The victory gave the Westlanders command of the league (3-0), however, they have a "key game" Friday at home against Livonia Franklin, the injury-stricken defending champ.

"They (Franklin) are always dangerous," Davis said. "They are a scrappy bunch and you can never count them out of anything."

Dan Diadiun and Daran Armstrong injected the adrenalin into the Rockets' offense as they accounted for 12 of the team's 17 points in the second period. Diadiun scored on four baskets and Armstrong, a sophomore guard, had two in the surge that lifted the Westlanders to a 27-26 advantage at halftime.

Glenn managed to widened the gap to five points midway in the third period and that was the largest lead they had on their visitors. Diadiun made it a 29-26 ball game with his first basket of the second half but back-to-back field goals by Mark Thompson and Mark Bentley put the Raiders ahead 30-29 with 5:16 left in the period.

A free throw by guard Dan Lorez gave the Raiders a 2-point lead which was erased by Pat McBride's initial budget of the quarter. Then, Ed Bates' three-point play gave Glenn some breathing room and Armstrong came up with a drive-in layup, widening the gap to 36-31.

However, 6-6 junior pivotman Harold Beardsley tapped in a rebound and came back for a pair of free throws to bring the Raiders back to within one point, 36-35, and that's how the period ended.

The tempo of the game picked up in the final eight minutes as both teams shook off the excess holiday fat.

Wanted: Rebound

The basketball always draws attention and in the above case Glenn's 6-6 Doug McCarty (50) has the edge and the rebound over North Farmington's 5-11 Mark Thompson (23). Though North had the over-all advantage in height, the Westlanders managed to board with their visitors on near equal terms. And that helped the rockets pull out a close 52-50 Northwest Suburban victory Friday night.

SAC boycotting Romulus?

Though they say they are dejected by their area rivals, Romulus cagers don't feel rejected when they hit the hardwood.

An "unofficial" boycott by the Suburban Athletic Conference teams has forced Coach Jesse Meriweather and his Eagles to look outside the immediate area for rivals, and there are plenty willing to take on the Class A power.

"The SAC has refused to play us because they hope to force us to join the league," Meriweather said, "and I'm all for it. However, some people just don't want us to play in that conference."

Meriweather pointed out that the SAC is a strong basketball conference and an opportunity to play in that league would give his players a chance to meet some of the finest players in the state, and also help us make some money from gate recipients."

The three-year-old SAC is made up of state cage powers River Rouge, Highland Park, Ecorse, Inkster and Dearborn Heights Robichaud. Romulus has been without league affiliation for at least four years. The schools have played Romulus in the past three years but have dropped it from their schedules this year.

Meanwhile, the Eagles are "coming around" as they edged Ann Arbor Pioneer and the Elliot brothers 72-61 in their latest outing.

"The last two ball games we've played excellent ball," Meriweather said, "and our players are coming around."

Al Lewis ignited a second period Romulus rally which helped the Eagles overcome a 16-13 first period deficit to take the lead 38-28 at halftime.

Pioneer, which has a couple of Elliotts - brothers of the former All-American prep cager - in its lineup, came back to tie the score in the third period but a barrage of baskets (Continued on Page B-2)

The Sports Meridian

'The Bird' flew the coop

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Mark "The Bird" Fydrich, the sensational rookie Tiger hurler, lured many a fan into the old barn on Michigan Avenue and Trumbull in Detroit last season.

And his charismatic personality was one of the reasons why Romulus High sold out their tickets for last Friday's Detroit Tiger vs. Romulus Faculty basketball game.

However, "The Bird" flew the coop and was a "no show" at the game which was organized to help raise money for Romulus High's athletic programs.

So, some of the fans asked for refunds to the tune of $400.

"It was an unfortunate situation," explained Dennis Stoh, the high school's baseball coach. "Apparently there was a mix-up in the scheduling and Mark was unable to be here."

"But our fans showed their class-sure, we had to refund some money but more than 1,000 stayed on to see the game and that helped us raise approximately $1,900 for our baseball team."

Romulus, slapped with a millage defeat, has been forced to cut programs and, as usual, the first to go was athletics. But various clubs, residents and civic leaders have come to the aid of the students, raising money through various projects which enabled the high school to keep its varsity basketball and wrestling programs "alive."

Though the unfortunate incident with Fydrich caused a minor stir among the disgruntled fans who had hoped to see the bushy-haired, wobbler in town, it ended in victory for the Tigers and the kids.

"It was indeed unfortunate that he had somehow mixed up the date," Stoh continued, "but the Tiger office gave us dates when it said that Mark would be available. It just didn't pan out."

"Our fans moreover displayed class by giving the Tigers who appeared here a three minute standing ovation - it was something you'd have to see and feel for yourself," Stoh added.

The game was the brain-storm of Fred Coleman, who is the sophomore class advisor. Some 40 baseball players also were busy selling tickets to assure success.

"We'll have a baseball team this season Stoh insisted, "we still need some money but we now have enough for a down payment on the season."

Meanwhile, the high school's basketball and wrestling teams are giving "it" an extra effort in appreciation of all the fans who backed them in their recent financial crises.

"When you have to reply on people to dig into their pockets so that you can field a team, the season has more meaning than just the won-lost record," said Jesse Meriweather, the head cage coach.

Meriweather pointed out that hundreds of persons have given so that his team could play and he singled out Gerald Nault, the president of the Romulus Progressive Club which donated $1,000, Kelsey Hayes, donors of $100, APA Community Club, also a $100 donor, along with the Jones Party Store, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beaman and "many other thoughtful citizens" who have helped.

Meriweather feels though that his team could make money if the administration would approve a recommendation to join the Suburban Athletic Conference. There's where Romulus "natural rivals" are: Highland Park, River Rouge, Ecorse, Inkster and Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

"We would fill the gym if these teams would play us," Meriweather said. "These games are 'the moneymakers'."

The SAC schools dropped Romulus last fall in an attempt to force Romulus to join the league through an "unofficial boycott." Though none of the SAC schools wish to discuss the situation, it is obvious since none has scheduled Romulus "something is brewing."

Meanwhile, the kids, teachers, and administration must come up with special projects to raise money for athletics until that day when the voters will decide to pass a millage.

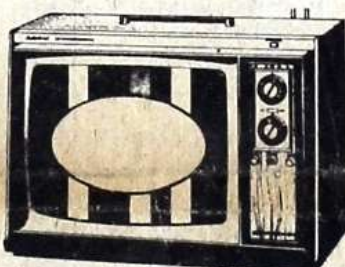

And, you and I know, that day may never come in Romulus.

If there were any doubts that Jim Ellingausen, the former all-stater from Plymouth Salem, could make it on the college level, those doubts were dispelled Saturday.

Ellingausen, a 6-7 cager, was in Ohio State's starting lineup against Purdue and we caught his act on the tube. The lanky freshman dumped in 14 points before fouling out in the fourth period and the consensus is that he'll be a super-star before he leaves the Buckeye ranks.

Westlanders nip defending champ, Wayne

Glenn wins Schoolcraft tourney

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial, two natural athletic rivals, turned the Seventh Annual running of the prestigious 32-team Schoolcraft Invitational Wrestling Tournament into a two-team duel Saturday with Glenn emerging with the championship.

Coach Bob Lusk's grapplers captured their first Schoolcraft crown by edging Wayne, the defending champ, by 5½ points. The Westlanders amassed 182½ points as compared to Wayne's 177.

Trailing some 50 points back was Farmington which wound up third with 126 points.

"The Schoolcraft Invitational has become one of the best tournaments in the state," said Dean Shipman, tournament manager. "The teams and the individuals who competed here are considered among the finest in Michigan."

It was the first time in the history of the invitational that Glenn came home with the coveted first place trophy. The Westlanders also claimed three individual titles thanks to Nick Paciocco (128), Bill Meyer (134) and Jim Meyer (180).

Glenn also was runner-up in the 114 pound class (Jerry Hensley) and Jerry Cook (157), while the Rockets had a third place with 167-pounder Jeff Doyle.

Wayne was shut out from the gold for the first time in seven years. They came close with Tim Clark who finished second at 134-pounds where he met Bill Meyer. Meyer was awarded the gold on an injury disqualification.

Coach Don Haney's team had four third places with Randy Pittman (128), Cory Bachus (140), Chris Leverenz (180) and heavyweight Kevin Wilson.

Fifth place awards went to Wayne's 147-pounder Chris Bachus and 157-pounder Bob Lusk while teammates Andy MacEachern (114), Bob Wanshon (121) and Ed Leverenz (193) placed sixth.

The area also reaped seven other medals.

Churchill had two of those with third place finisher Bill Riddle at 114 and Mike Jack who earned a fifth at 107; Salem had the runner-up at 193 in Dave Champion while Jeff Fidge wound up sixth at 147 for the Rocks.

Plymouth Canton made its presence felt with a fifth place by Craig Lee (114) and a pair of sixth places with Bill Heedum (107) and Dave March, (134).

Top teams next for Belleville

This is the week that will tell Coach Tom Niemi what his Belleville cagers are made of.

Niemi takes his Tigers up against undefeated Plymouth Salem, ranked the No. 2 team in the metro-West area, and also faces once-defeated Livonia Bentley Friday night.

"We'll be able to draw some conclusions after this week," said Niemi whose club made it three in a row Friday night by turning back a highly-touted Edsel Ford 64-52 in its latest Suburban 8 Conference encounter.

"It should be very interesting to see what happens with back-to-back games against Salem and Bentley," Niemi added. Salem is the defending league champ.

Belleville managed to play over early foul trouble against Edsel and established a 20-9 first period lead as sophomore Kelvin Patterson sank 12 of his game-high 24 points in that quarter.

Edsel closed the gap to 34-29 at the half and came within three points in the third period, 42-39 before Belleville's Roy Rutherford found the range in the fourth period and pumped in nine of his 11 points to pull the Tigers out of danger.

"I felt the difference in this game was the rebounding," Niemi said. "Would you believe our charts show we outrebounced them 48-18 for the game and 17-0 in the opening period?"

Rutherford and Patterson were instrumental in providing control of the boards as they teamed for 36 of the 47 caroms.

When fouls began to take their toll in starters, Niemi inserted Lance McArthur, Harold Dennis and Rob Laney into combat and they responded with outstanding performances.

"Our bench played very well," Niemi noted. "We got into early foul trouble and the boys who went in got the job done for us."

Belleville will get its first look at West German exchange student Flo Humm, a 6-7 pivotman who has been the key to Bentley's success this season. The Tigers will be the host Friday night for the initial meeting.

by Lewis, Wendell Buckley and Darnell Norris to put the Eagles ahead for good early in the fourth period.

Lewis turned in one of his finest performances of the season as he drilled 12 field goals and five free throws for a game high 29 points. Buckley settled for 18 while Morris also was in double figures with 13.

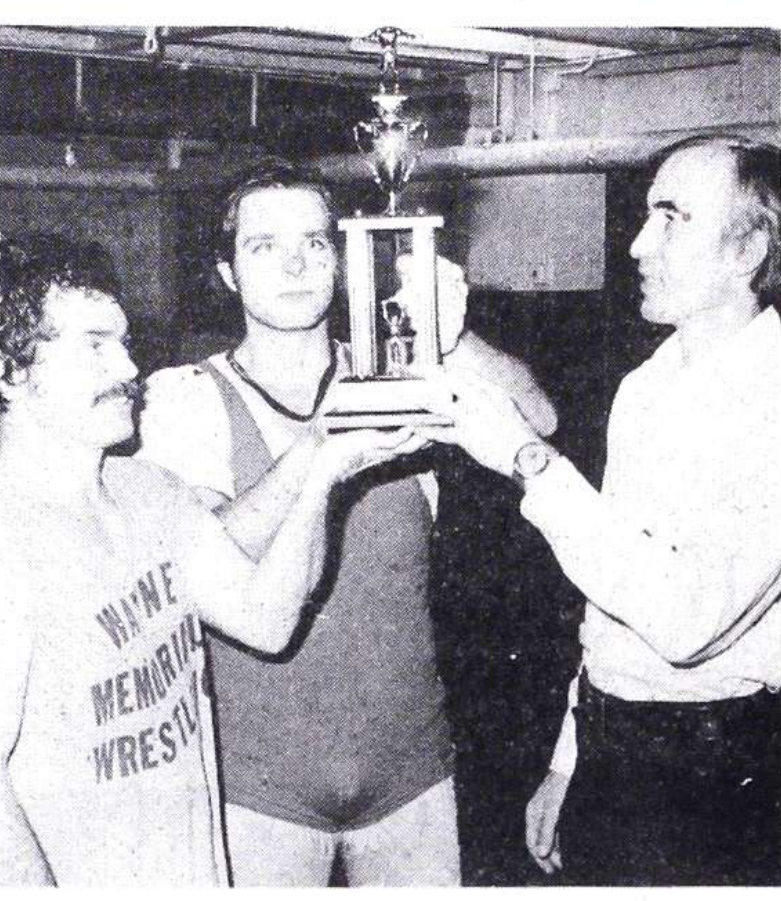

Chris Fischera and Elliot shared Ann Arbor scoring honors, splitting 38 points between them.

Romulus will test Class B ranked Willow Run on Friday at the Flyers' hangar and Meriweather "wants this one."

"Willow Run is ranked among the top 10 teams in the Metro West area and a victory over them would lift a few eyelids," Meriweather said.

Admiring the trophy Wayne Memorial wrestlers earned on their recent trip to the California State College's Invitational in Pennsylvania are head coach Don Haney (from left) assistant coach Vince Wilhelm and athletic director Bill Hawley. The two coaches presented the second place trophy to Hawley last week who will place the huge award among the score of others the wrestlers have brought home over the years.

The Capp Finish-It-Yourself House™

THE HOME YOU WANT-AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD

Finish-It-Yourself means just that. By doing the finishing work on your new dream home, you can save thousands compared to the cost of having a contractor build the same house on your lot. Capp homes are custom-built by craftsmen who take pride in their work and use the finest quality construction materials. The result is a home you'll take pride in for years to come. Here's how it works.

YOU DECIDE WHERE TO LIVE. First, select the area where you'd like to live, then find a nice piece of property. If you already own a lot, you're all set.

CUSTOM DESIGN YOUR FLOOR PLANS. You can select from our collection of 60 models, and you can customize any of our plans or we'll build from your plans. Either way, your home can be completely personalized.

SELECT YOUR OWN FEATURES. Capp provides you with the quality materials you specified to complete your Finish-It-Yourself House. You select the roofing, siding, and all the interior features. Kitchen and bathroom accessories, doors, windows, flooring, lighting fixtures — the works. You plan your new home exactly the way you want it.

WHAT WE DO. Capp custom-builds your home on your foundation according to the plans and Capp specifications. We install sub-flooring, interior partitions and exterior doors and windows — so you wind up with a home that's enclosed and ready for you to finish.

WHAT YOU DO. What's it like to finish a house yourself? Things like plumbing and wiring aren't all that tough with the help of Capp instruction manuals. But even if you need outside help, you'll still save money by being your own general contractor and eliminating the middleman. Remember, the more you do, the more you can save. And when you're finished, you have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it.

CAPP QUALITY — NO COMPROMISE. Capp doesn't compromise on quality. With our materials and building specifications, we maintain an old-fashioned dedication to quality. The fact is, we've been building homes just this way for 30 years.

FINANCING — WE CAN HELP. Your Capp Homes Representative can assist you in applying for financing through your own lender or Capp sources. He'll make sure your new home fits your family's needs, as well as your family's pocketbook.

Hovering over John Glenn's Doug Martin (22) is North Farmington's 6-6 junior Harold Beardsley (51) who bats away the Rocket cagers attempt for a layup. Glenn survived a scare 52-50 to keep its 3-game Northwest Suburban Conference winning streak intact Friday night.

and a jump shot - gave Glenn a 48-45 lead midway in the fourth period, but the Raiders weren't about to give up.

North missed an easy layup with 32 seconds left and go the last shot away after Glenn turned the ball over with four seconds remaining on a traveling violation.

Diadun, an All-Area cager as a junior, counted eight field goals and made four of five free throws for a game high 20 points. Armstrong was the only other Glenn player in two figures. He had 10.

Bentley scored 15 for the Raiders while Thompson and Garcia each had 10.

Apparently Glenn hasn't learned its free throw lesson. It cost the Rockets a game against Cherry Hill during the Western Wayne Holiday Tournament and it almost cost them the victory against North.

Glenn managed to sink only eight of 19 fouls and luckily for the Westlanders North also was cold at the charity stripe where it canned six of 16.

Key game in Northwest

Showdown: Franklin vs. Glenn

What happens when two teams that like "to run" clash?

Well, in the case of Cherry Hill, who has been living off of its speed" and of Crestwood, whose diminutive quintet has moved to the top of the Tri-River Conference standings because of its fast-breaking, the answer will come Friday night.

That's when these two teams meet for the first time. Both teams share first place with Kennedy and Schafer. All are 3-1 in the conference.

"They have team balance," said Dick McNally whose team crushed Garden City West 79-54 last Friday to get its slice of first place. "They also have one of the finest shooters in guard Greg Reid."

Crestwood's Joe Guerriero said that Cherry Hill will have the edge in height, "but the two teams are almost identical. In fact, we both like to run a lot and it will come down to which team runs the longest."

Cherry Hill has a relatively easy time with the problem-stricken West contingent which hasn't won a game this season. The Spartans jumped to a 24-14 first period lead with sophomore Floyd Simmons and senior guard Dennis Gunn at the throttle of the scoring machine.

Simmons, a 6-footer, pumped in a career high 15 baskets and five free throws for 35 points, the game's high. He also hauled down 14 rebounds and intimidated West's players, blocking five shots.

Gunn, who finished with 16 points, led the Spartan attack, getting numerous assists and setting up the offense. "He just played an outstanding game for us," said McNally.

McNally also singled out Tim Corden for his exceptional play. Corden came off the bench in the second period and before the night was over had 10 rebounds and six points.

West was out of the game at halftime as the Tigers fell behind 49-29 and were outscored 16-8 in the third period.

"Chris (Chris Babler, West's coach) is rebuilding his squad with three or four sophomores," said McNally. "And, though he may have his problems this season, he'll be back a year from now believe me."

Cherry Hill cagers place share of 1st place on block

If Livonia Franklin, the defending champ, wants any part of the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball championship this year it'll have to prove it Friday night.

Coach Bob Visser's Patriots, snuggled in second place with a 1-1 league record, will meet the league-leading John Glenn quintet Friday night for their first of two confrontations of the year.

"No doubt about it, it's a key game for both teams," said Visser whose Patriots have been struggling to overcome a series of aching injuries. "We need this one to stay alive and they (Glenn) would like to finish the first round with a perfect record."

Franklin tuned up for the showdown with a low-scoring 42-35 victory over non-conference rival, Rochester Adams. However, the Livonians bowed to a hard-luck Plymouth Canton club 83-40 in their first game of the New Year.

Canton has lost three games this season by one or two points and in overtime.

John Zannis scored eight of Franklin's 18 points in the first period while the Patriot defense held Adams to four points in their initial encounter which game the Livonian's a jump on their rivals.

Though Franklin built up a 21-12 halftime edge, Adams came back and tied it in the second half as the Patriots hit a cold streak. Held to a slim 28-24 edge after three periods, Franklin outscored their rivals 14-11 in the final eight minutes of the game.

"It was a low scoring game because we worked for the good shots and took only five in the second period," Visser explained. "And they stayed around the key and wouldn't come out."

The game was tied at 28-28, finally broke when Franklin's Dave Smith sank four consecutive free throws resulting from a pair of technical fouls against the Adams' coach and a personal foul.

Zannis led all scorers with 16 points while teammates Jeff Phillips and Dave Wilson split 22.

None of Adams' players reached double figures.

Canton opened the 1977 phase of the campaign with an impressive victory over the Livonians. It was the first time in the history of the two schools that Canton had ever beaten a Franklin varsity cage team.

The Plymouth quintet jumped out in front 19-10 and for all purposes the game was over by intermission when the Chiefs had amassed a lopsided 40-24 advantage. They held the Patriots to six points in the third period and took a 67-40 margin into the last stanza.

Rob Mandle paced all scorers. The Canton senior hit on eight from the field and three of five free throws for 19 points.

Walkers look good on skis

Cadillac — The Walker family from Wayne scored impressive performances in the dual NASTAR ski racing competition Sunday at the Caberfae Ski Resort near Cadillac.

Kari Walker, captured first place and a silver medal in the women's 16-18 class with a 30.3 time.

Ken Walker wrapped up a bronze medal with a first place time of 35.6 in the men's 40-49 division.

Invading North territory

Brushing aside North Farmington's Mark Bentley (45) and Mike Garcia (at left), Glenn's sophomore guard Daran Armstrong (with ball) powers his way to two hard-earned points in the Rockets' cliffhanging 52-50 triumph Friday night. The Northwest Suburban Conference leaders need a win over defending champ Franklin Friday night to wind down the first round of league competition with a perfect 4-0 record.

Proper maintenance, including well-spaced tune-ups, will make a lot of troubleshooting unnecessary by heading off malfunctions before they reach the critical stage. Remember that there are some factors that may make the engine seem to be malfunctioning when it is not. Tire pressures that are too low, for instance, besides being harmful to the tires themselves, can result in decreased performance. Dragging brakes, including the parking brake, can have the same effect; so can faulty wheel alignment.

Keep your car running in top form with quality parts and accessories from KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan... the "House of a Million Parts"! We keep a complete inventory of quality parts for all foreign and domestic cars. We also have a fine selection of automotive tools. Area swim listing

To no one's surprise, Cherry Hill and Belleville, two of the area powerhouses, hold down most of the top times in the initial area high school swimming and diving listing of the season.

Belleville's 200-yard medley team of Curtiss, Hennells, Bearance and Stoelton is the quarter to catch in the area. Sam Vicchy's Tigers have posted a 1:45.6.

Belleville has the top diver in the area in All-Area performer Ray Paponetti who has 257.5 points.

Belleville places 8-meet swim streak on the line

The curtains will come up on the 1977 Suburban 8 Conference swimming season this week and unbeaten Belleville finds itself facing one of the perennial Class A state powers for its first test.

Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers will host Edsel Ford Thursday night in a 7p.m. meet and Vicchy is quick to note: "That Edsel is tough."

"Edsel has fine swimming tradition," Vicchy said, "and they're a powerful team this year."

Belleville, though, is also no pushover. Sam's Tigers have amassed eight consecutive dual meet victories and have already qualified four individuals and a medley relay team for the state finals.

"We have a flock of excellent swimmers," said Vicchy, "and among them we have to include Howard Renton, Ron Curtis, Mark Stoelton and Scott Hennells." Curtis has qualified for the state meet in the 100-yard backstroke while Stoelton will represent Belleville in the 50-yard freestyle. The medley relay team is made up of Curtis, Hennells, Harold Gable and Stoelton. "I feel our boys are doing one heck of a job," Vicchy added. "And deserve much more recognition than they are presently getting."

Romulus bows to West

Spotting Garden City West 12 points on the mats, Romulus wrestlers came within two of upsetting the Tri-River Conference representative Thursday night.

The Eagles fell 32-20. "We have a couple of wrestlers out with injuries," said Romulus Coach Vern Logan, "and when they get back I feel we'll be all right."

The two injured are Ricky Morrison, a 138-pound senior who was named to the All-Area squad a year ago, and newcomer Duane Cofield, a 132-pounder.

Romulus will be back on the mats Thursday night, clashing with Westland John Glenn.

Wayne, Westland set speed skating meets

With ample help from Mother Nature, the Westland Wayne parks and recreation departments will stage separate novice speed skating meets this month.

The Westland meet, set for Jan. 22 at the Westland Multi-Purpose Arena in Jaycees Park, 6210 North Wildwood, is open to boys and girls who are residents of the city.

Registration will be accepted until Sat., Jan. 16 and competition will begin at 1:30 p.m., Jan. 22.

The age categories include 7 & under (50-yard dash), 8-9 (one lap), 10-11 (two laps), 12-13, (three laps), 14-15 (four laps).

Participants are required to complete a registration form and submit it to the parks and recreation department. Skaters also must wear either hockey or figure skates, (speed skates are not allowed). Skaters belonging to a speed club or having skated in a sanctioned meet before are ineligible to compete in the meet.

Awards will be presented to first, second, third and fourth place finishers in each event and boys and girls will race separately.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Westland Parks and Recreation offices at 729-4560.

The Wayne Jaycees, in conjunction with the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department, is sponsoring the second annual Novice Speed skating meet on Jan. 22 at the Wayne Community Center, 4635 Howe Rd.

The competition is open to boys and girls, ages 5 to 15 who will be divided up in the following age groups: 5-6 (one lap), 7-8 (two laps), 9-10 (two laps), 11-12 (three laps) and 13-15 (four laps).

Participants must be Wayne residents and must wear either hockey or figure skates, (no speed skates are allowed).

Boys and girls who are interested in competing in the meet are required to complete a registration form which include name, birth date, address, phone and sex.

Deadline to enter the Wayne meet is 4 p.m., Fri. Jan. 21 and the check in time for the competition has been set for 1 p.m., Jan. 22. The meet will begin at 2 p.m.

Further information about the meet may be obtained by contacting the Wayne parks and recreation department.

Cherry Hill launches defense of swim crown

With the nonleague phase of the season behind it, Cherry Hill on Thursday will begin its defense on the Tri-River Conference swim championship at Dearborn Heights Riverside.

Riverside is the only team to defeat Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans in the league in the past five years.

This time around, however, Pawloski feels his swimmers have a definite edge.

"Riverside has a couple of blue chip swimmers," Pawloski commented, "but I don't think they have enough of them to stop us this season."

The dual meet is scheduled for 4 p.m. at the Dearborn Heights-based high school's pool.

Meanwhile, Cherry Hill picked up its fifth victory in six starts with an impressive 49-34 triumph over Fordson, the defending Great Lakes 8 Conference champs.

The Spartans swept eight out of a possible 11 first places. They had a couple of double winners in Randy Wehrmeister and Rick Kogelschatz.

Wehrmeister turned in a 1:54.7 to win the 200-yard freestyle and came back for a 5:10.9 to touch in first for the 500-yard freestyle. Kogelschatz took the 50-yard freestyle in 23.1 and then carded a 50.9 to win the 100-yard freestyle.

Meet results: Cherry Hill 49, Fordson 34

Boys and Girls!

The "pirate" map shows a "business route", and something more.

There's treasure for you in a newspaper route.

No need to take off for some lonely island! There's treasure that could be yours for the asking right in your own neighborhood. Jolly good treasure! Selling and delivering our product to customers who enjoy a newspaper in the home.

You could use the treasure to help put yourself through college. Or for whatever other purpose you choose. A new bike, for instance.

You will gain hidden treasure, too, through your newspaper route. The ability to get along with people. How to handle money, keep records, and be punctual. And in managing your route, you will make practical application every day of the lessons you learn in school. This will help you get better grades.

Think about it. Give us a visit or call us by phone. Tell us you want to put yourself "on the map". Tell us you want a newspaper route in your neighborhood.

JEFF LIEDEL

Jeff Liedel, former Belleville High swim star and an All-Area alumnus, will be completing his senior year at Bowling Green.

Coach Tom Stubbs looks for an improved year with five school record holders, led by Liedel, returning to his lineup. Liedel holds the 200-yard freestyle mark.

If the pieces fall into place, an improved season should be in order for BG's squad although the Falcons are still a few swimmers and a new swimming pool away from challenging for the top spot in the Mid-American Conference.

IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD...
ASK BOBBIE

Bobbie Kelly will be appearing at the following store:
217 EAST 11 MI. RD. NEAR MAIN ST.
ROYAL OAK, MICH.
THURS. JAN. 13 10 A.M. TO 4 P.M.

BE A SMART SHOPPER AND SAVE

A better knowledge of the food economy, careful planning and sharper shopping skills can help manage family resources and control the food budget.

Buy the quantity of food best suited to your needs and storage facilities. If sufficient freezer space is available, purchase food in large quantities and freeze for future use.

Use the actuals. Consider cost per serving when there is waste such as bone and fat. When there is no waste, buy food by the ounce or pound.

Handle food with care. Wasted food is wasted money. Make the refrigerated and frozen foods department the last stops, then store immediately as soon as you arrive home.

Save time at the check-out counter by placing items so that all prices are visible and any coupons are with the individual item.

Examine receipts to determine how much of the food budget is actually spent for food.
